HAYWOOD SULLIVAN

Haywood handles the Red Sox personnel and staff. The former All-American quarterback at the Univ. of Florida has served the Red Sox in almost every capacity since he signed with them as a promising catcher in the early 1950's. He managed the Kansas City A's in the mid-1960's before returning to the Red Sox as Vice-Pres., Player Personnel in Dec. of 1965.

EDWARD G. (BUDDY) LEROUX

The day-to-day workings of the Red Sox administration come under Buddy's jurisdiction. He was the Red Sox trainer for nine years (1966-74), including the 1967 "Impossible Dream" pennant season. He also was the trainer for the Boston Bruins and Boston Celtics, and he handled the training duties for both the Celtics and Red Sox in 1966-67.

Zimmer

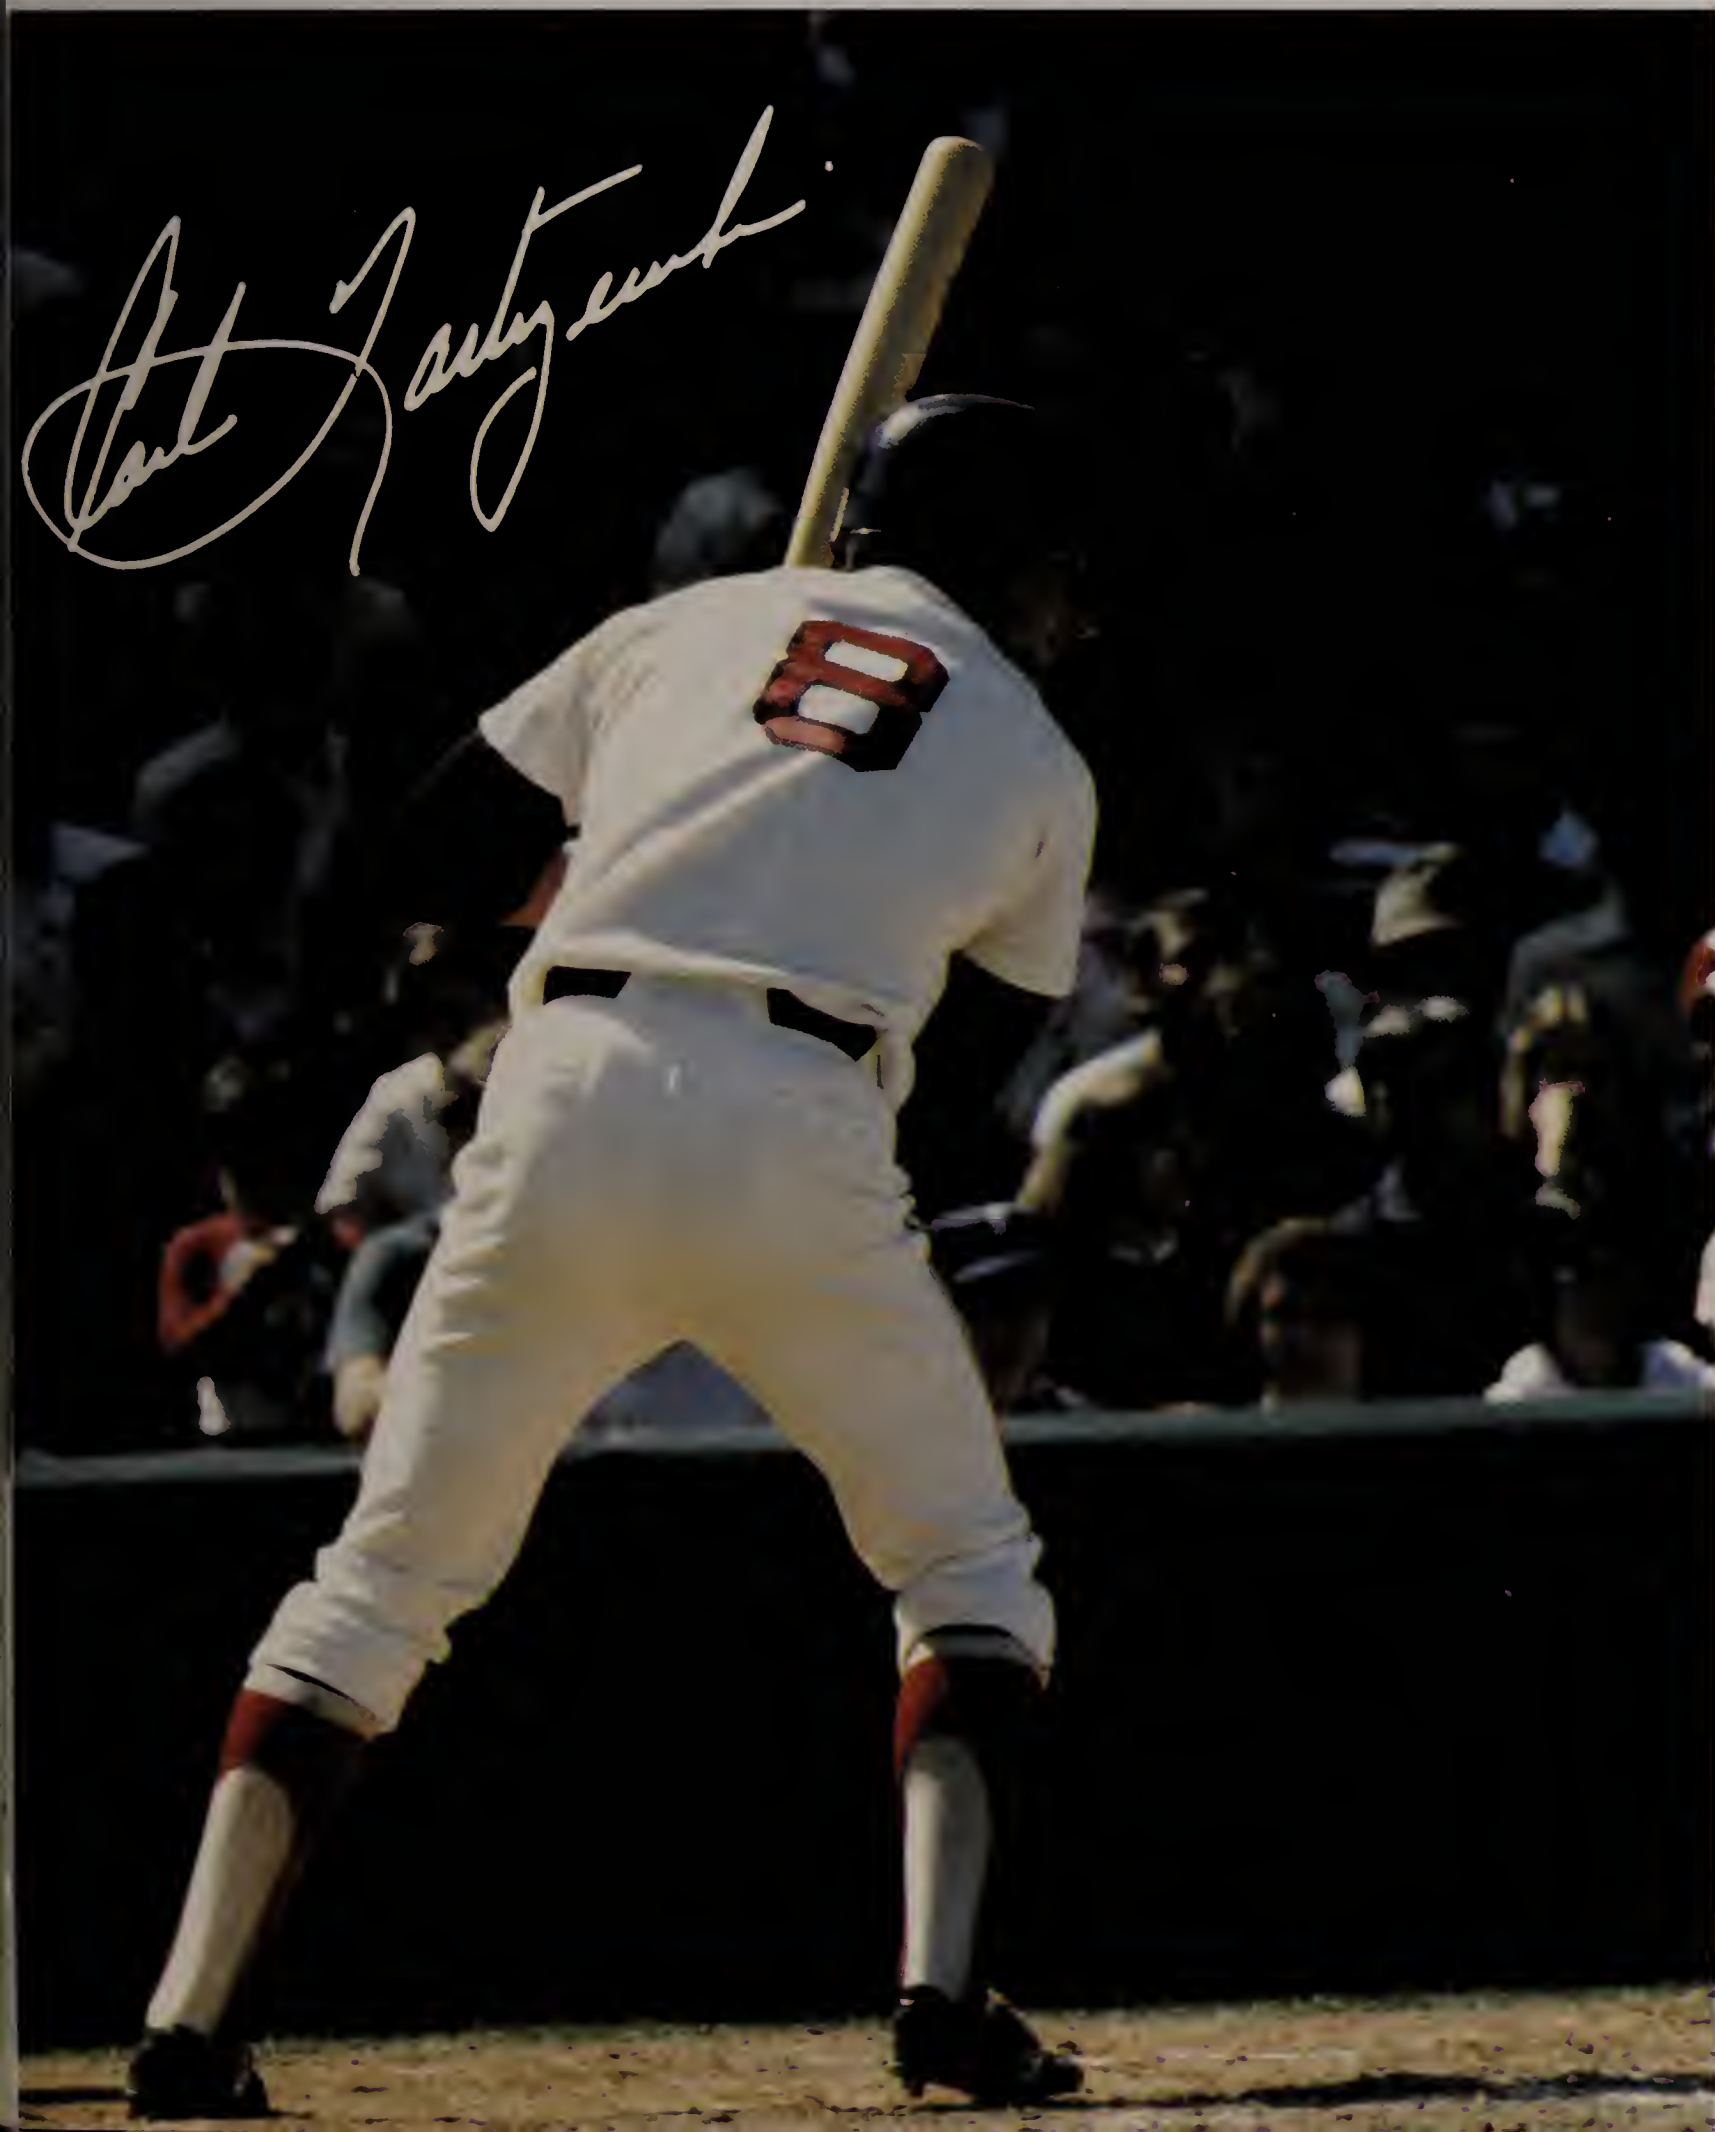

34

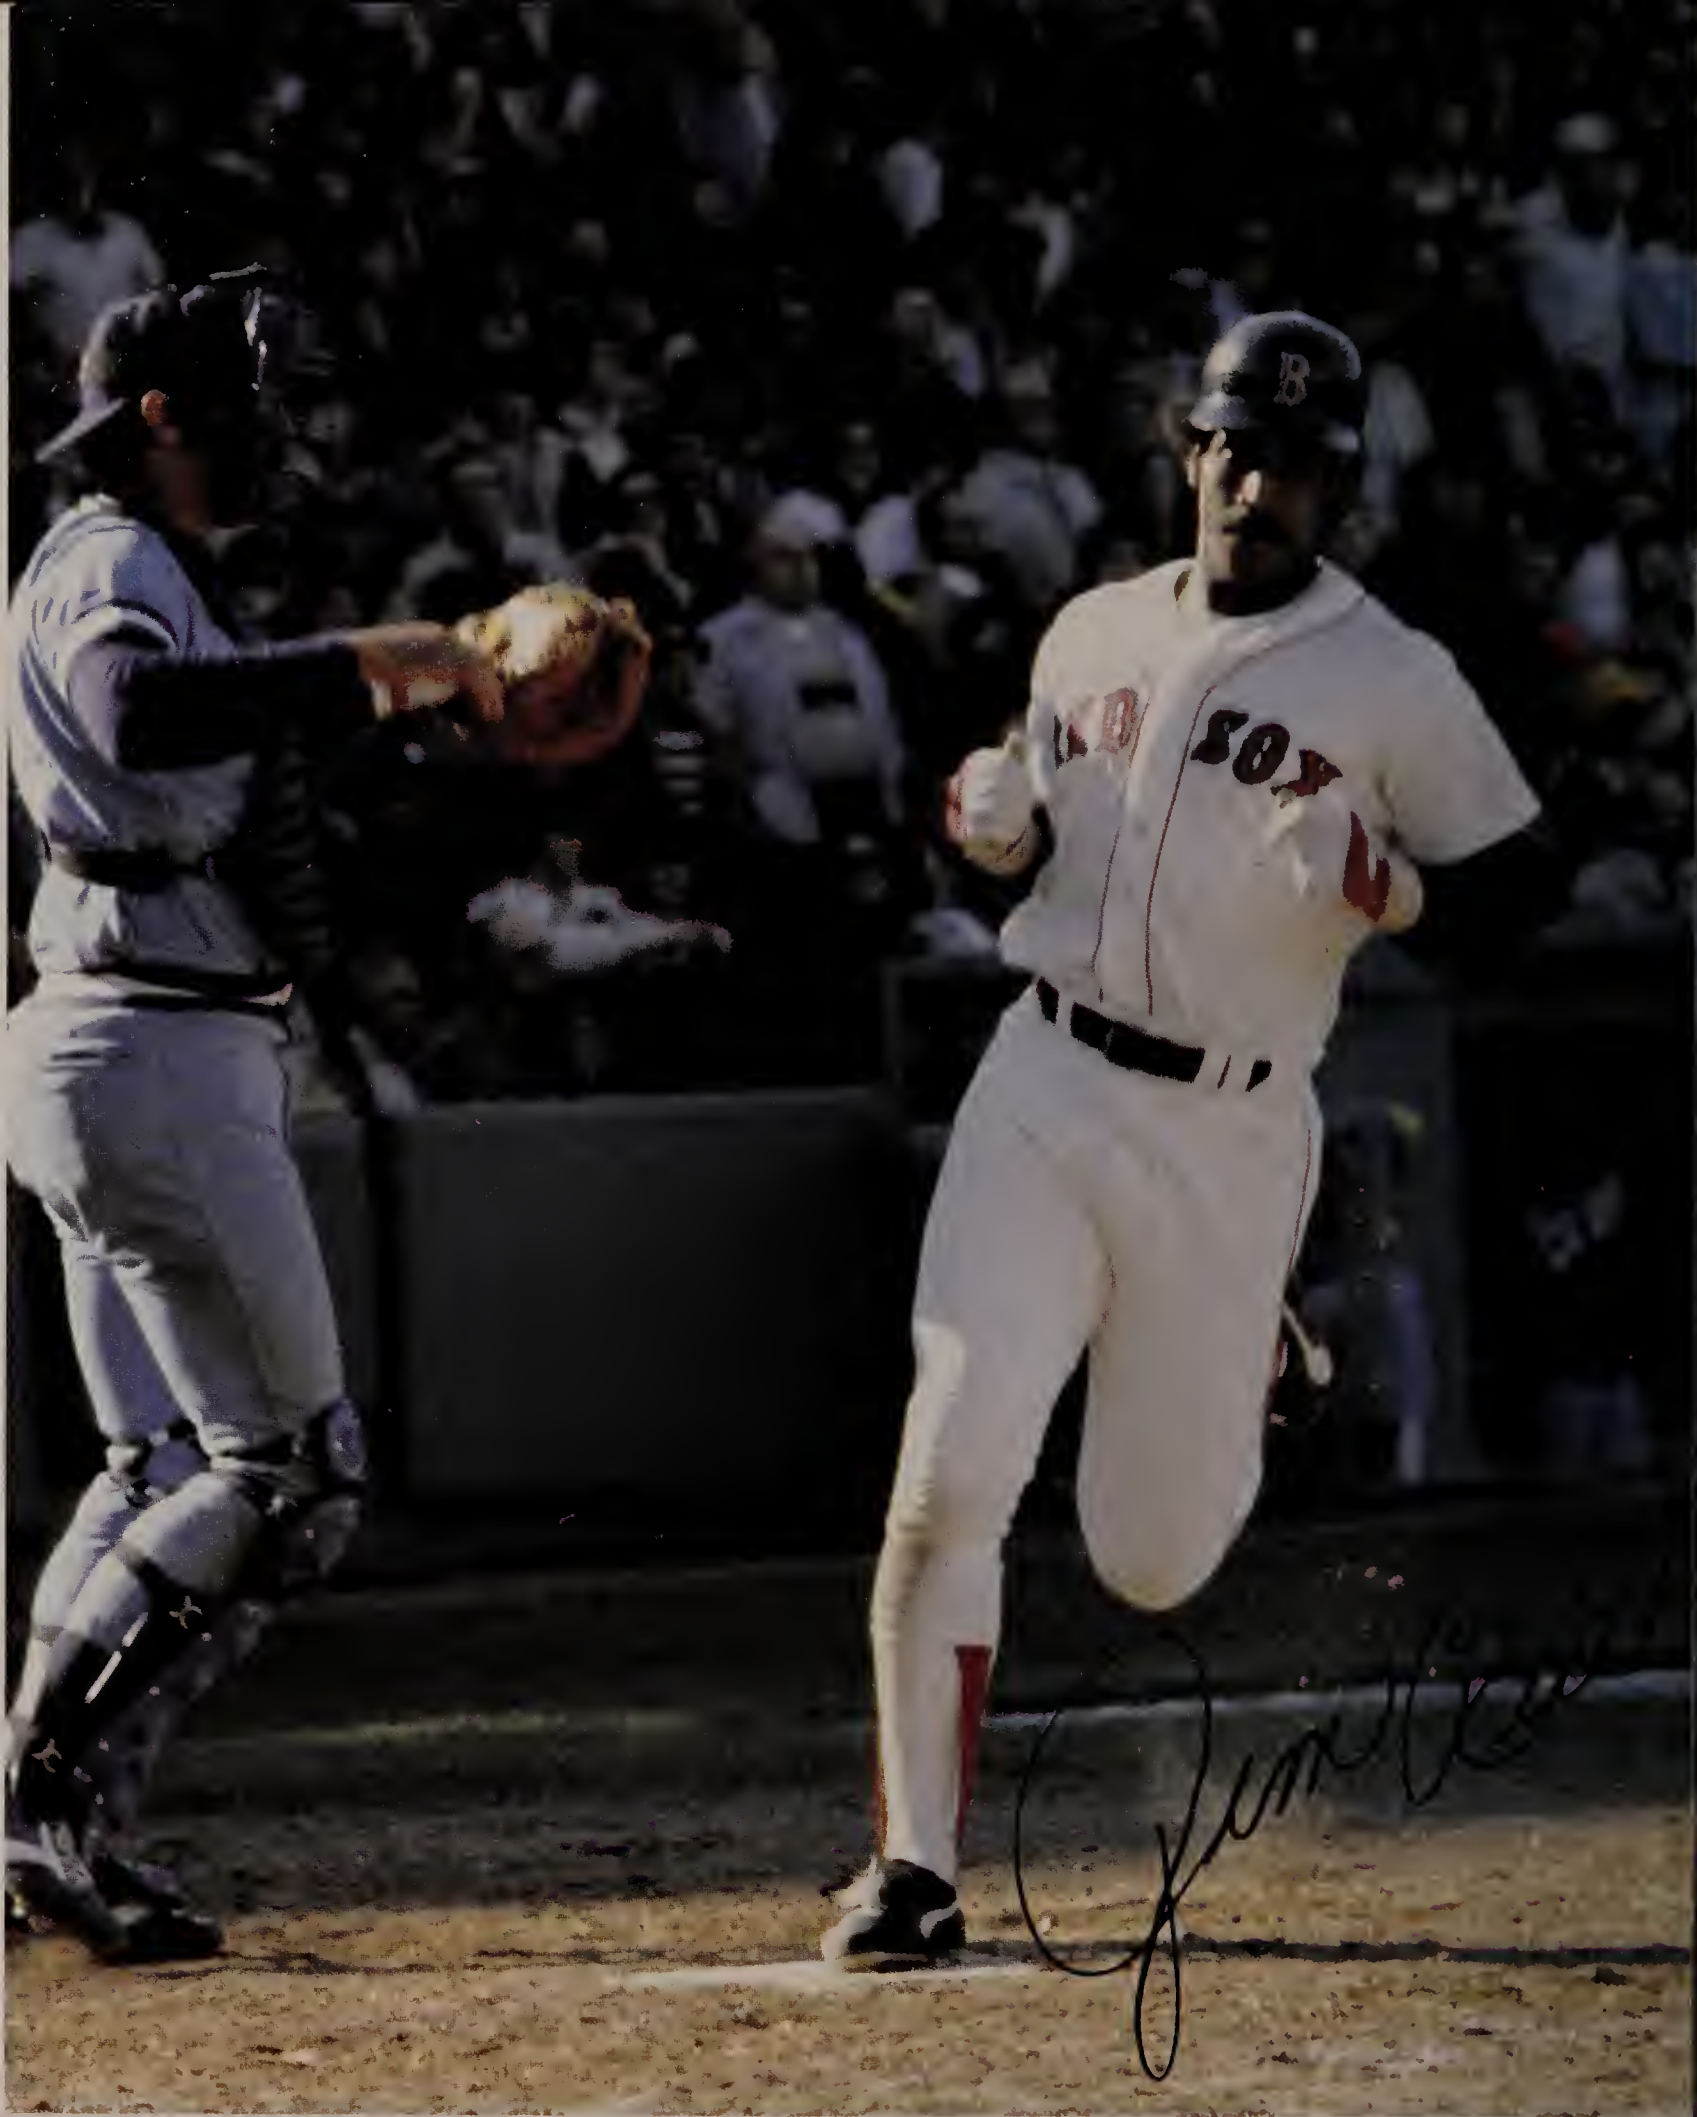

The Red Sox have been an exciting and successful team under Don's leadership. He succeeded Darrell Johnson as manager July 19, 1976, after being the team's third base coach for 2½ years. The Red Sox were 42-34 the rest of that summer, and then had outstanding records of 97-64 and 99-64 in 1977 and 1978, respectively. Midway through 1979, Zimmer had the fifth most wins and the fourth best winning percentage of all Red Sox managers. During a 12-year career with the Dodgers, Cubs, Mets, Reds and Washington Senators, he played second, short, third and the outfield, and even caught 35 games.

Sometime during the second half of the season Yaz should attain a plateau never reached by an American League player — 400 home runs and 3,000 hits. He already ranks among the top 20 all-time in games, at bats, hits, doubles, home runs, RBIs, total bases and walks, and is still playing in the spirited, clutch manner that has characterized his great 19-year career. Yaz's list of achievements is long and includes the Triple Crown and A.L. MVP Award in 1967, seven Gold Gloves, three batting titles, two great World Series, and Outstanding Player Award in the 1970 All Star Game.

In less than five years Jim has developed into the finest all-around power hitter in baseball. This year he has continued the hitting feats that enabled him to lead the majors in 7 categories in 1978, accumulate 406 total bases (the first A.L. player to reach 400 in 41 years) and win the A.L. MVP Award. Rice has hit tape-measure homers in every park in the league, but is just as proud of getting over 200 hits in 1977-78. He was the Red Sox first pick in the 1971 June draft, was an All Star in three minor leagues, and was Minor League Player of the Year in 1974.

Rice

Despite three serious injuries "Pudge" is still a great clutch player, whether behind the plate or at bat. After missing almost two months of the 1979 season, he came back to give the team a lift with some timely hitting. Since being unanimously named the A.L. Rookie of the Year in 1972, Fisk has won numerous awards including the Thomas A. Yawkey Team MVP award in 1977. That year he became the fifth catcher in history to score 100 runs and drive in 100 in the same season. Four times he hit over 20 home runs, and last year he slammed 39 doubles, three shy of Mickey Cockrane's record for catchers.

27

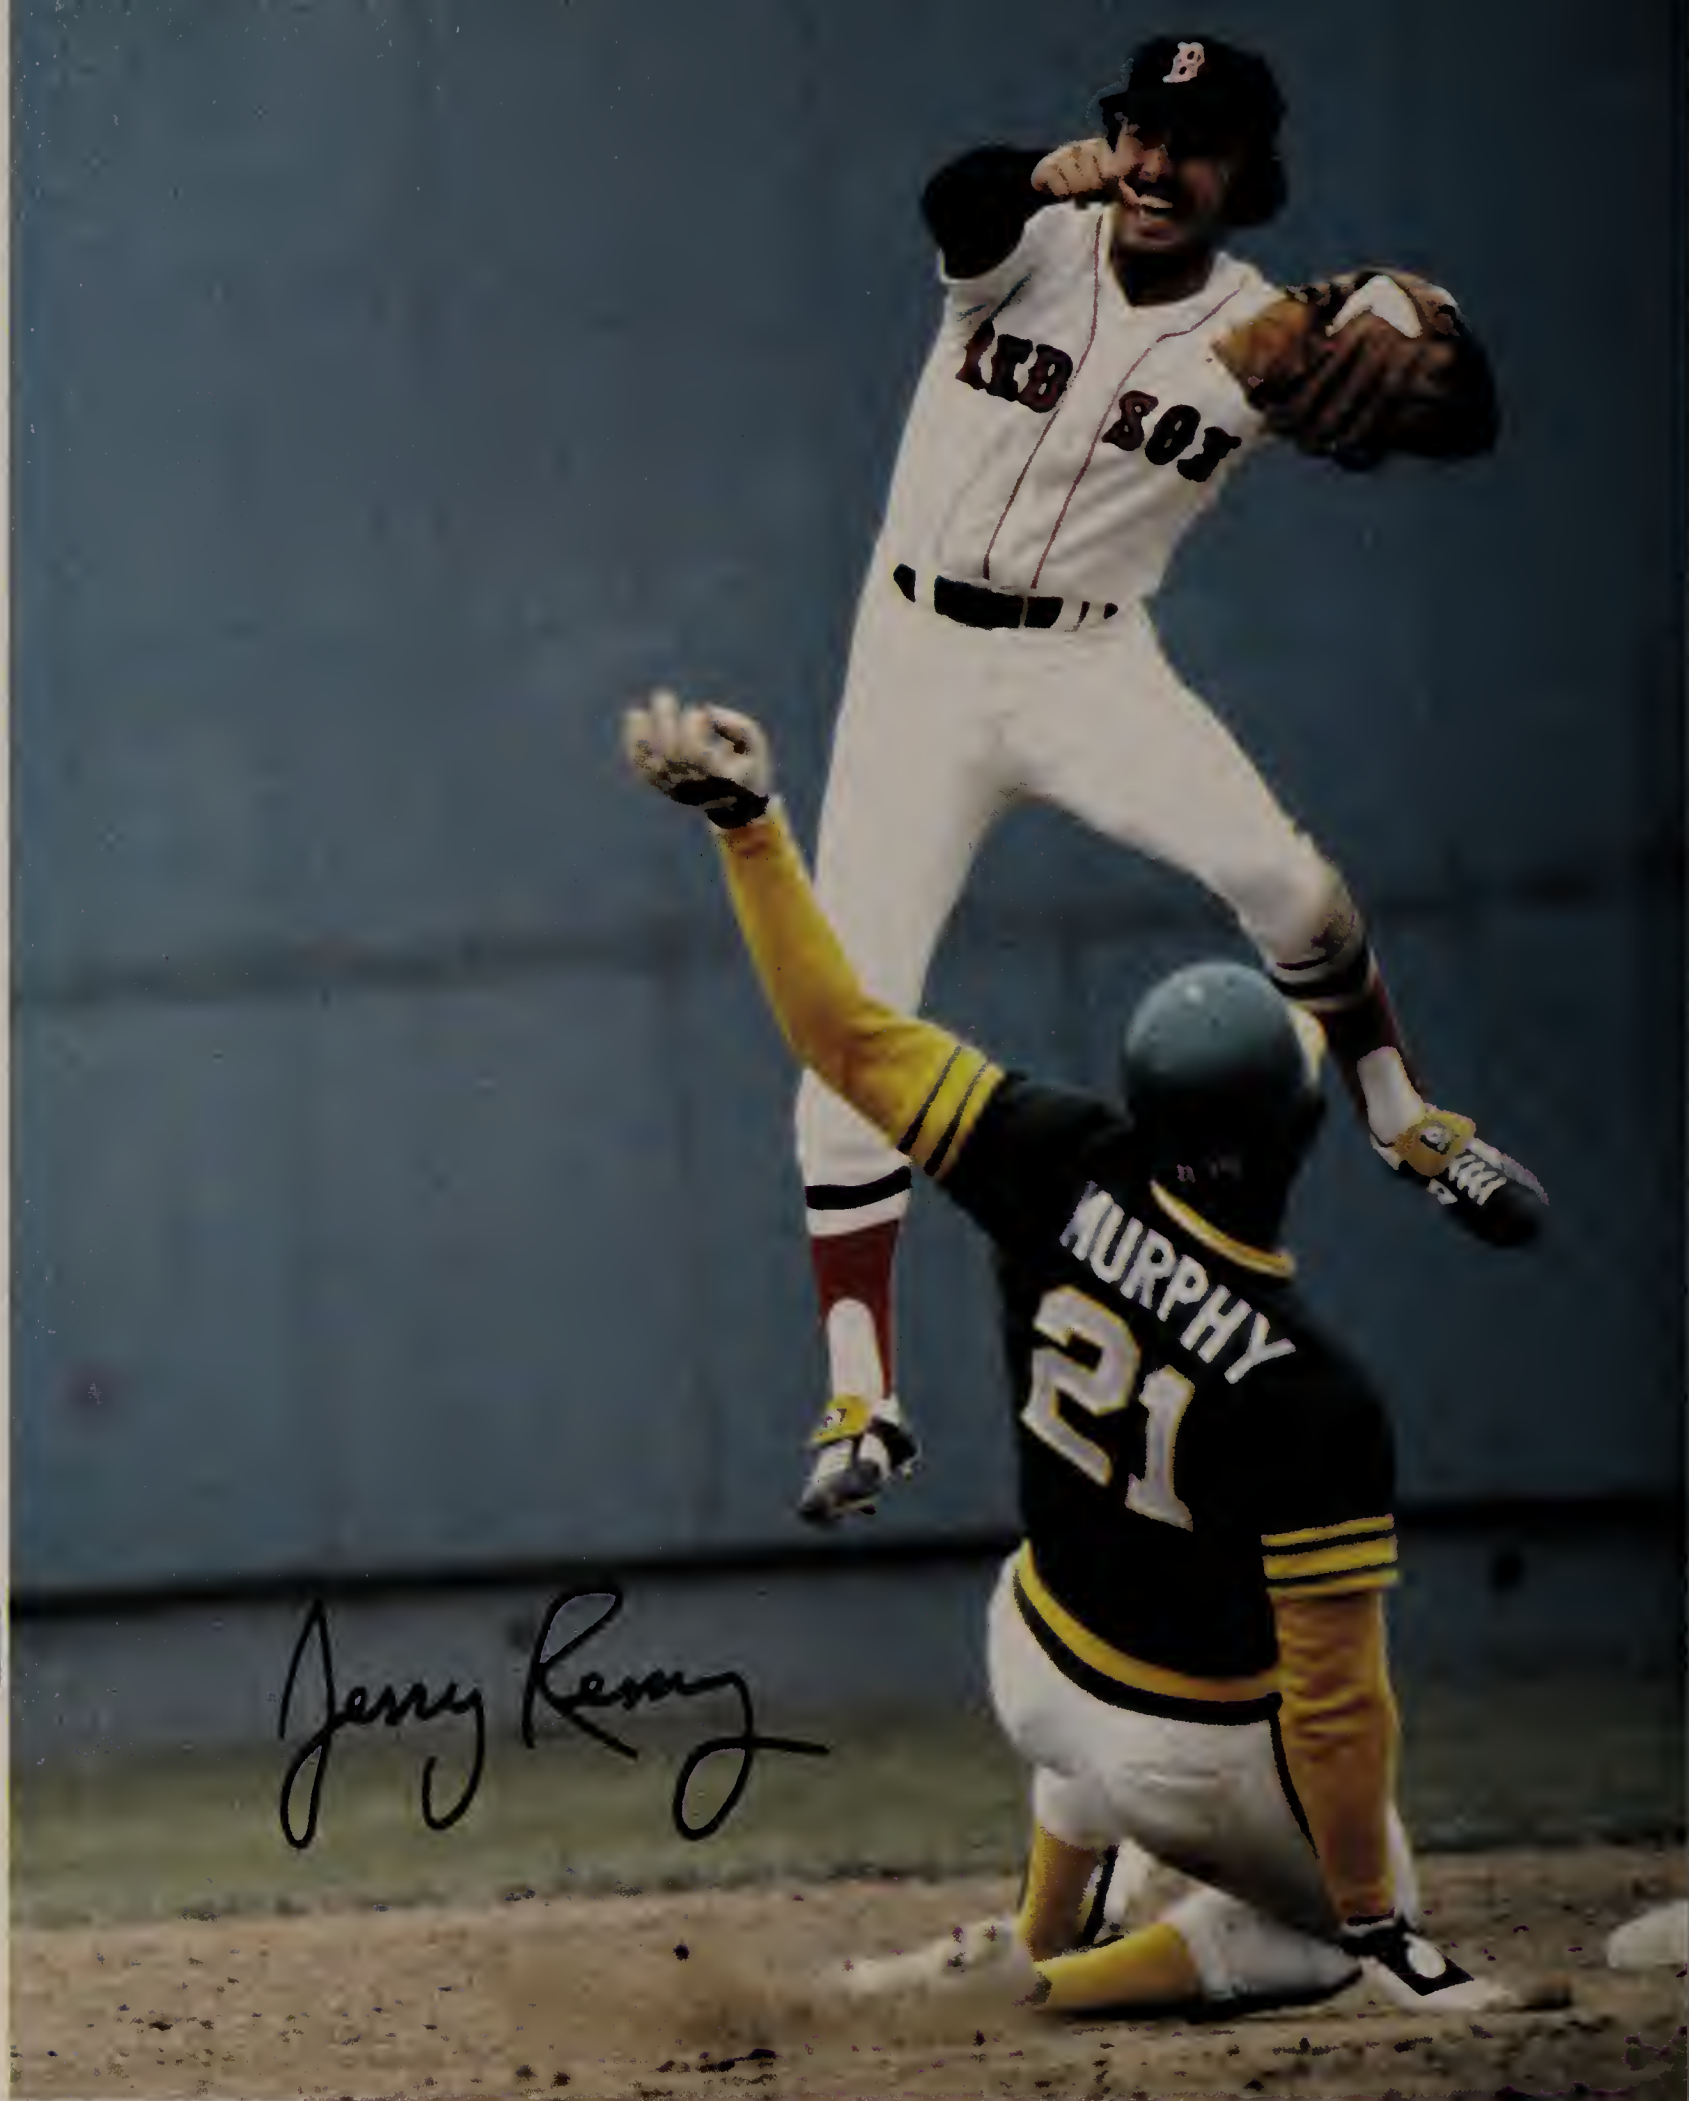

Fisk

Carlton Fisk

Remy

Jerry is on the way to his best all-around season with some timely hitting, alert base-running and steady defensive play at second base. The speedy left-handed hitter maintained a .300 average the first half of the year and sprayed clutch hits to all fields. Remy was an All State selection at Somerset (Mass.) high school and signed with California in 1971. He became the Angels' second baseman in 1975 and was chosen to the majors' All Rookie team. In 1977 he was the Angels' Captain, and that December he came to the Red Sox. He hit .278 and stole 30 bases his first season in Boston.

Rick makes all the plays in the field and is a great middleman on the double play with his rifle-like arm. He has established himself as one of the best all-around shortstops in baseball. He continues to be a true clutch performer and is also a good offensive player. During the past four years he ranked among the top American league shortstops in most hitting categories. Burly was first pick of the Red Sox 1970 winter draft and moved up the minor league ladder until he came to Boston early in 1974 to stay. He hit .291 in 1976 and .293 in 1977 with 194 hits.

7 Burleson

Fred Lynn

Junior

A fluid batting style and brilliance in centerfield have helped make Fred one of baseball's best performers. This year he got off to a terrific start and hit for more power than ever. Fred's tremendous 1975 season earned him Rookie of the Year and MVP honors, among many awards. In Detroit on June 8 of that year, he hit three homers, a triple, and a single, with 10 RBI. Last year he hit 22 homers and won his second Gold Glove. Fred entered U.S.C. on a football scholarship but switched to baseball and made All American in 1972-1973. He was the Red Sox second pick in June of 1973.

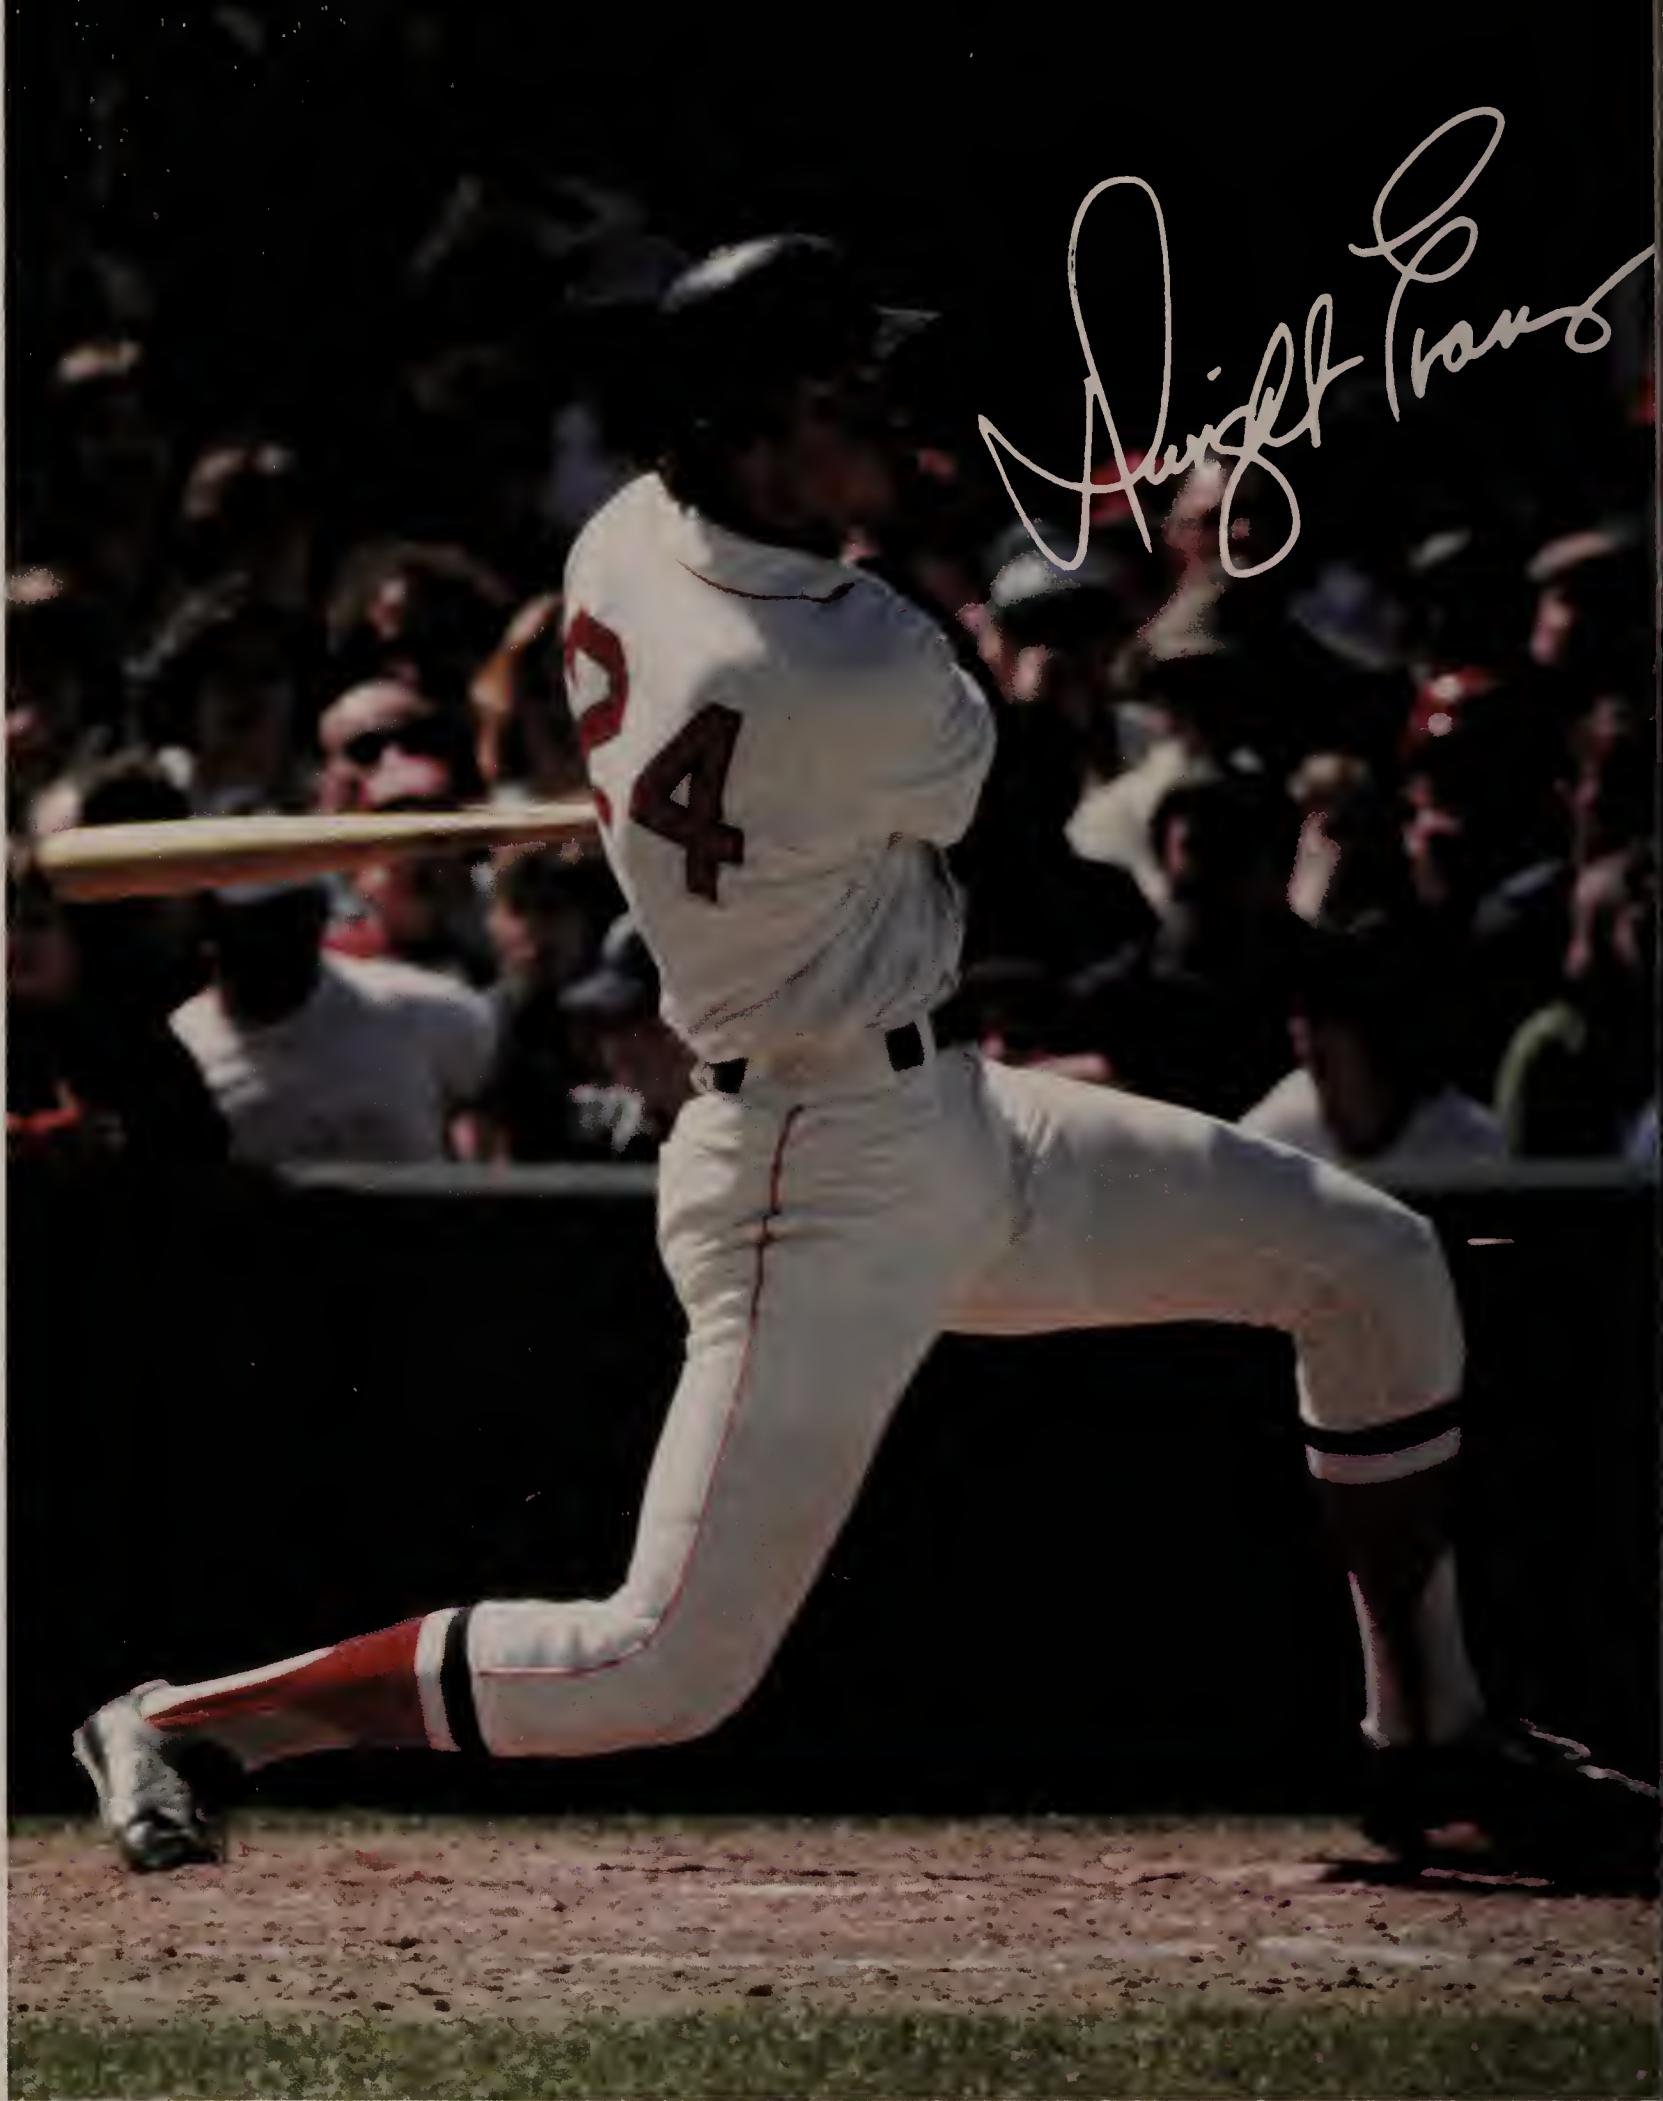

Butch's all-out hustling style of play has endeared him to Red Sox fans since he slammed an inside-the-park home run against the Orioles after being recalled from Pawtucket in June of 1976. In 1978 a pulled hamstring muscle and bone chips in his right elbow caused Butch to fall off badly in his hitting and fielding from an outstanding 1977 season (30 HR, 112 RBI's). But the bone chips were removed last fall, and Hobson diligently built his strength back up so that by early May he was once again in the lineup. After a fine career at the Univ. of Alabama in baseball and football, he signed with the Red Sox in June of 1973.

Since he joined the Red Sox in September of 1972, Dwight has continually shown why he is considered one of baseball's great rightfielders. His defensive prowess is helped by a knowledge of how to play the opposing hitters plus a strong, accurate arm. He succeeded in winning his second Gold Glove award in 1978 as well as hitting 24 home runs. In the 1979 season he has overcome the serious beaming of last August and has hit with power, while maintaining his high defensive ranking. Dwight was the club's fifth pick in the 1969 June draft, and moved up to the majors after winning the International League MVP in 1972.

For 10 years Bob was one of the National League's most fearsome hitters. He holds the Houston records for career hits and RBIs and ranks in the top three in almost every offensive department. Bob's .299 lifetime average includes four .300 seasons (1972, '73, '75 and '76). He hit .289 last year, with 79 RBIs, despite missing over a month of action with a pulled hamstring muscle. He drove in over 100 runs in 1976-77 and was voted the Astros MVP in 1975. In 1973 and 1975 Bob was selected to the N.L. All Star team, and several years ago he scored baseball's one millionth run.

5 Mets soon

Torres

In six of the last seven years Mike has pitched over 200 innings while putting together five straight winning records. He's made over 300 starts and completed almost one-third. In 1978, his first season in Boston, Mike was 16-13 and set a personal high of 120 strikeouts. He joined the Red Sox through the Free Agent Re-entry draft after he was the hero of the 1977 World Series, with two complete game wins and 15 strikeouts against the Dodgers. He first came to the majors with the Cardinals in 1967. Mike had a 20-9 record for the Orioles in 1975.

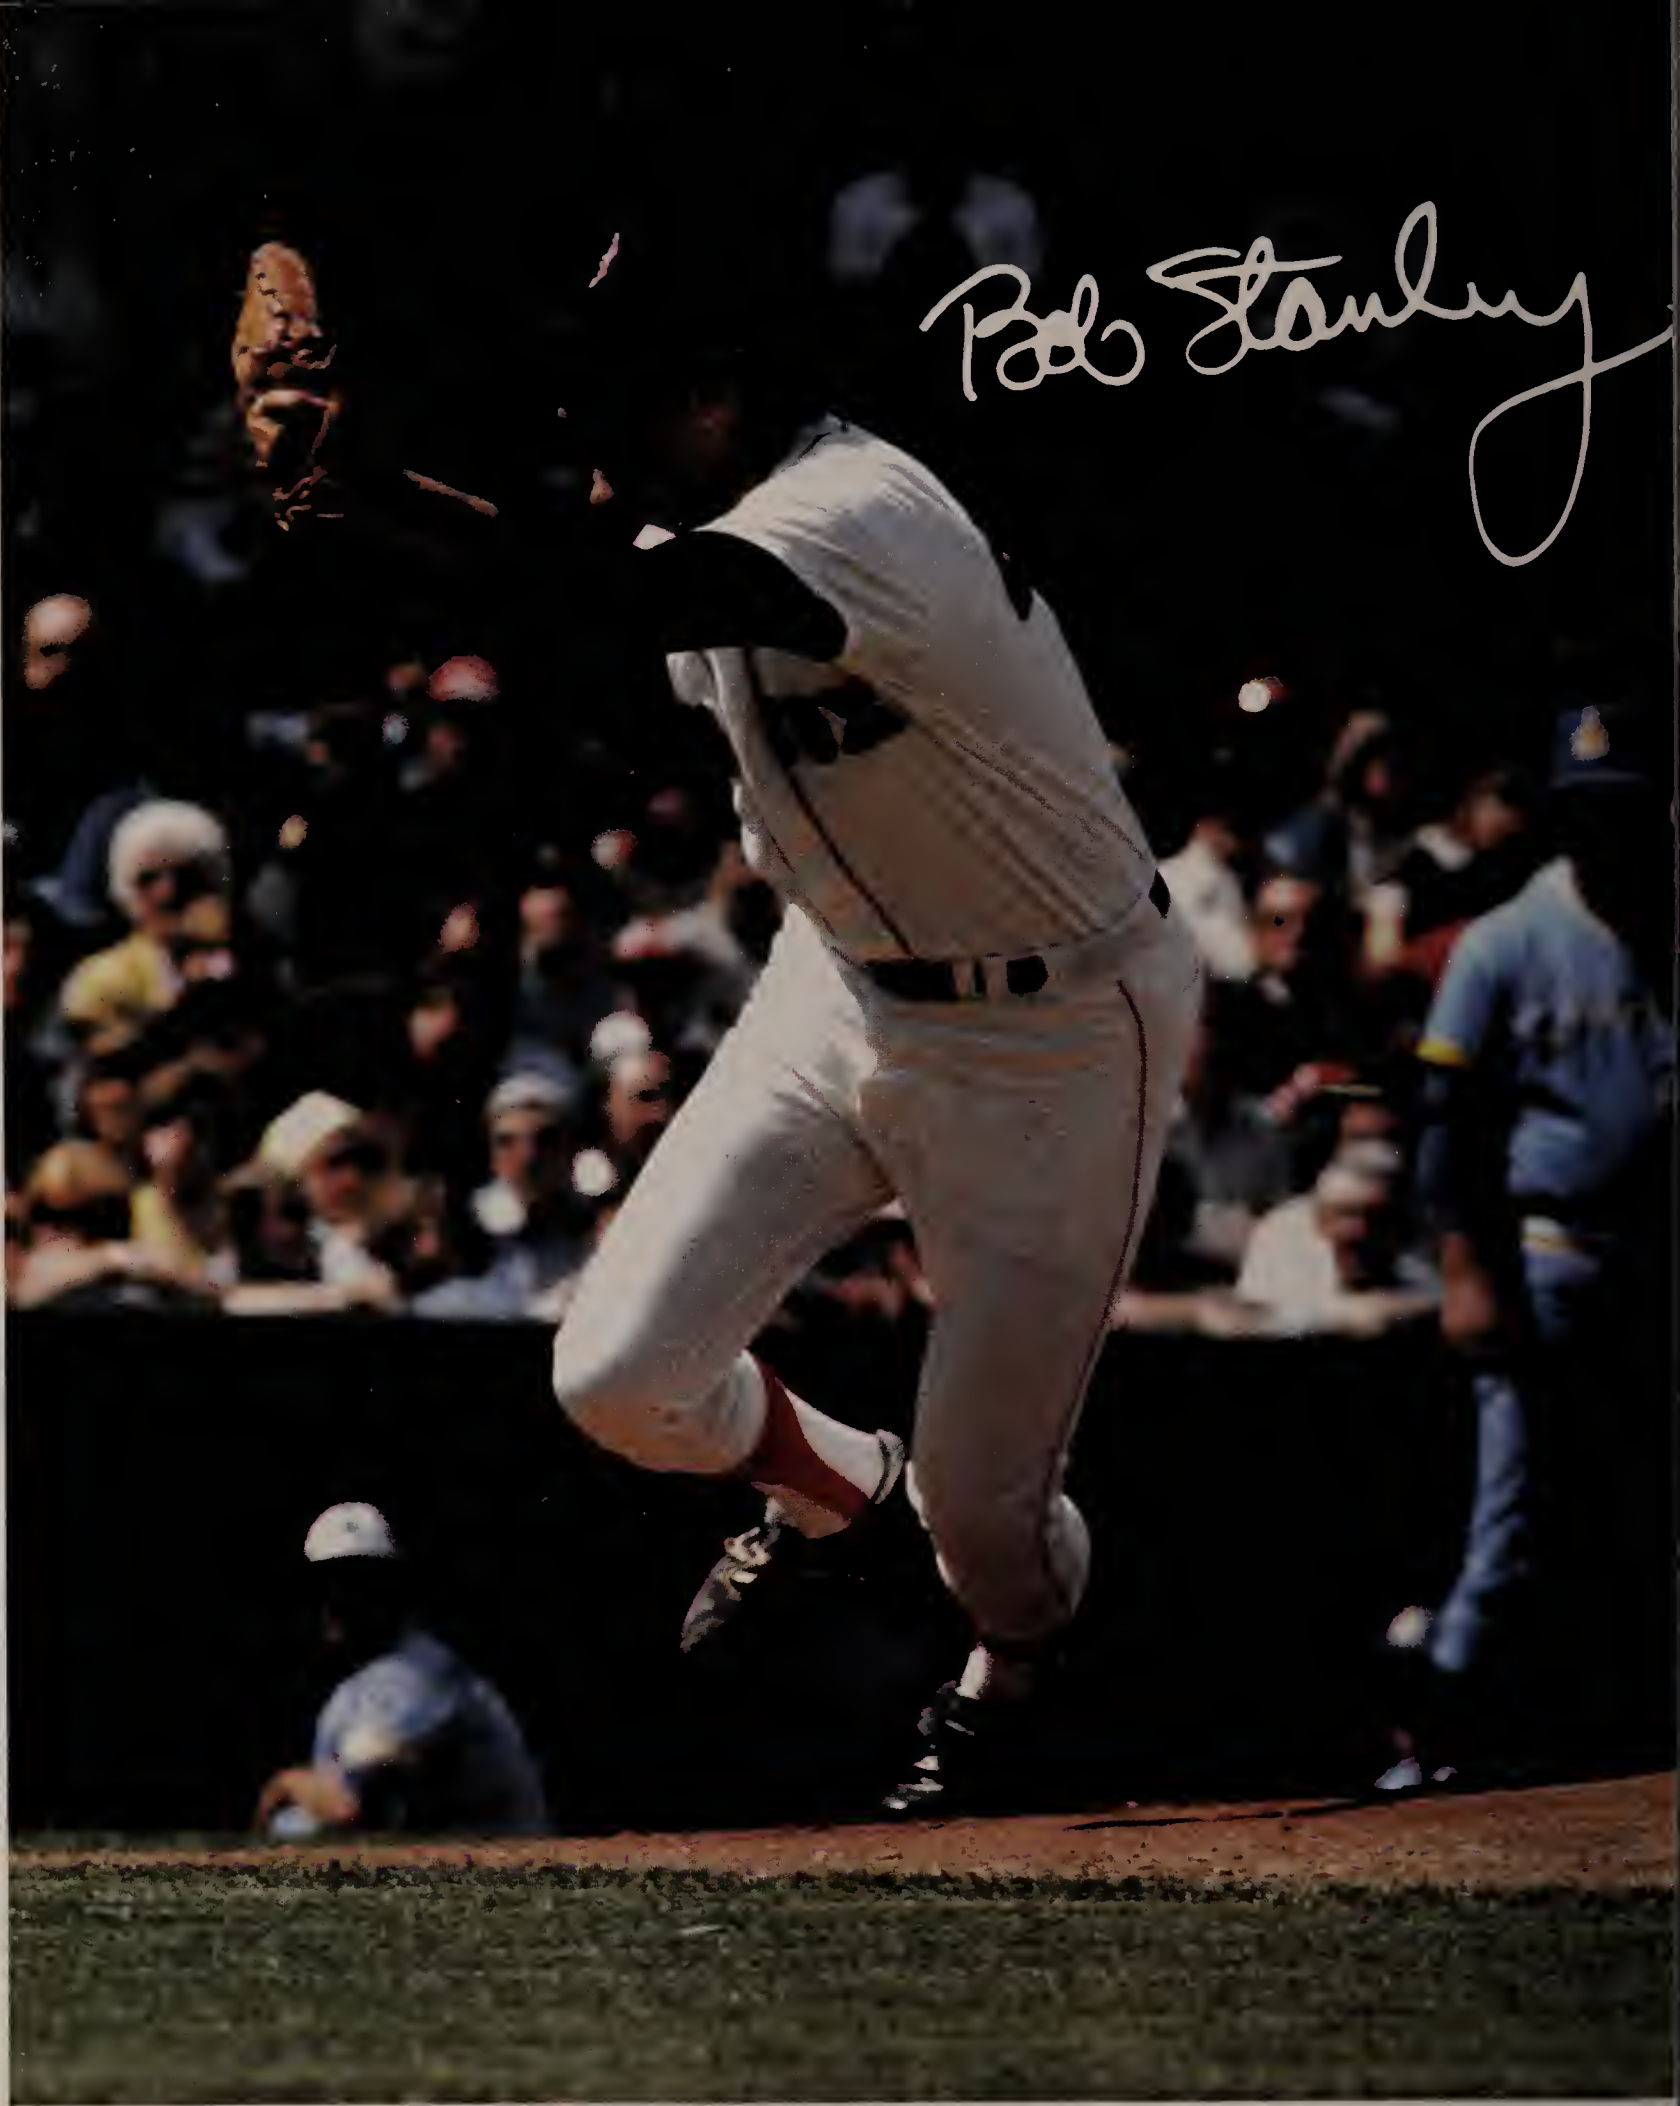

Dennis is one of the most successful and colorful young pitchers in baseball. He produced a 20-8 record with a 2.99 ERA his first year in Boston and became the team's "stopper." Primarily a fast-ball pitcher during his three years with Cleveland, Eck has added a variety of breaking pitches to make him even more effective. In 1975 he was the A.L.'s Rookie Pitcher of the Year, and in 1976 he became only the eighth pitcher since 1900 to strike out 200 in a season before reaching the age of 22. On May 30, 1977, Dennis tossed a 1-0 no-hitter with 12 strikeouts against the Angels.

Eckersley

Stanley

46

"Pitching versatility" describes Bob Stanley. The 24 year-old righty has been everything for the Red Sox — a starter, long reliever and short reliever. He pitched well as a starter the first two months of this season and then moved to the bullpen when injuries depleted the staff. In 1978 he was the team's "Fireman of the Year" when he put together a 15-2 record and 10 saves in 52 games. In 1977 Bob jumped from Double A to the Red Sox and has pitched in over 100 games in less than three years. He was the club's top pick in the secondary phase of the 1974 January draft.

Steve has bolstered the Red Sox pitching staff with his steady performances. Utilizing a better fastball than he's had in recent years, Renko has pitched in the style that made him one of Montreal's top winners from 1970-75. He tossed three one-hitters for the Expos and in 1973 had his best year, 15-11 with a 2.81 ERA. The 6'6" righthander was a three-sport star at Kansas U. and quarterbacked a backfield that included Gale Sayers. He originally signed with the Mets as a first baseman but switched to pitching in 1967. He came to the Red Sox in January.

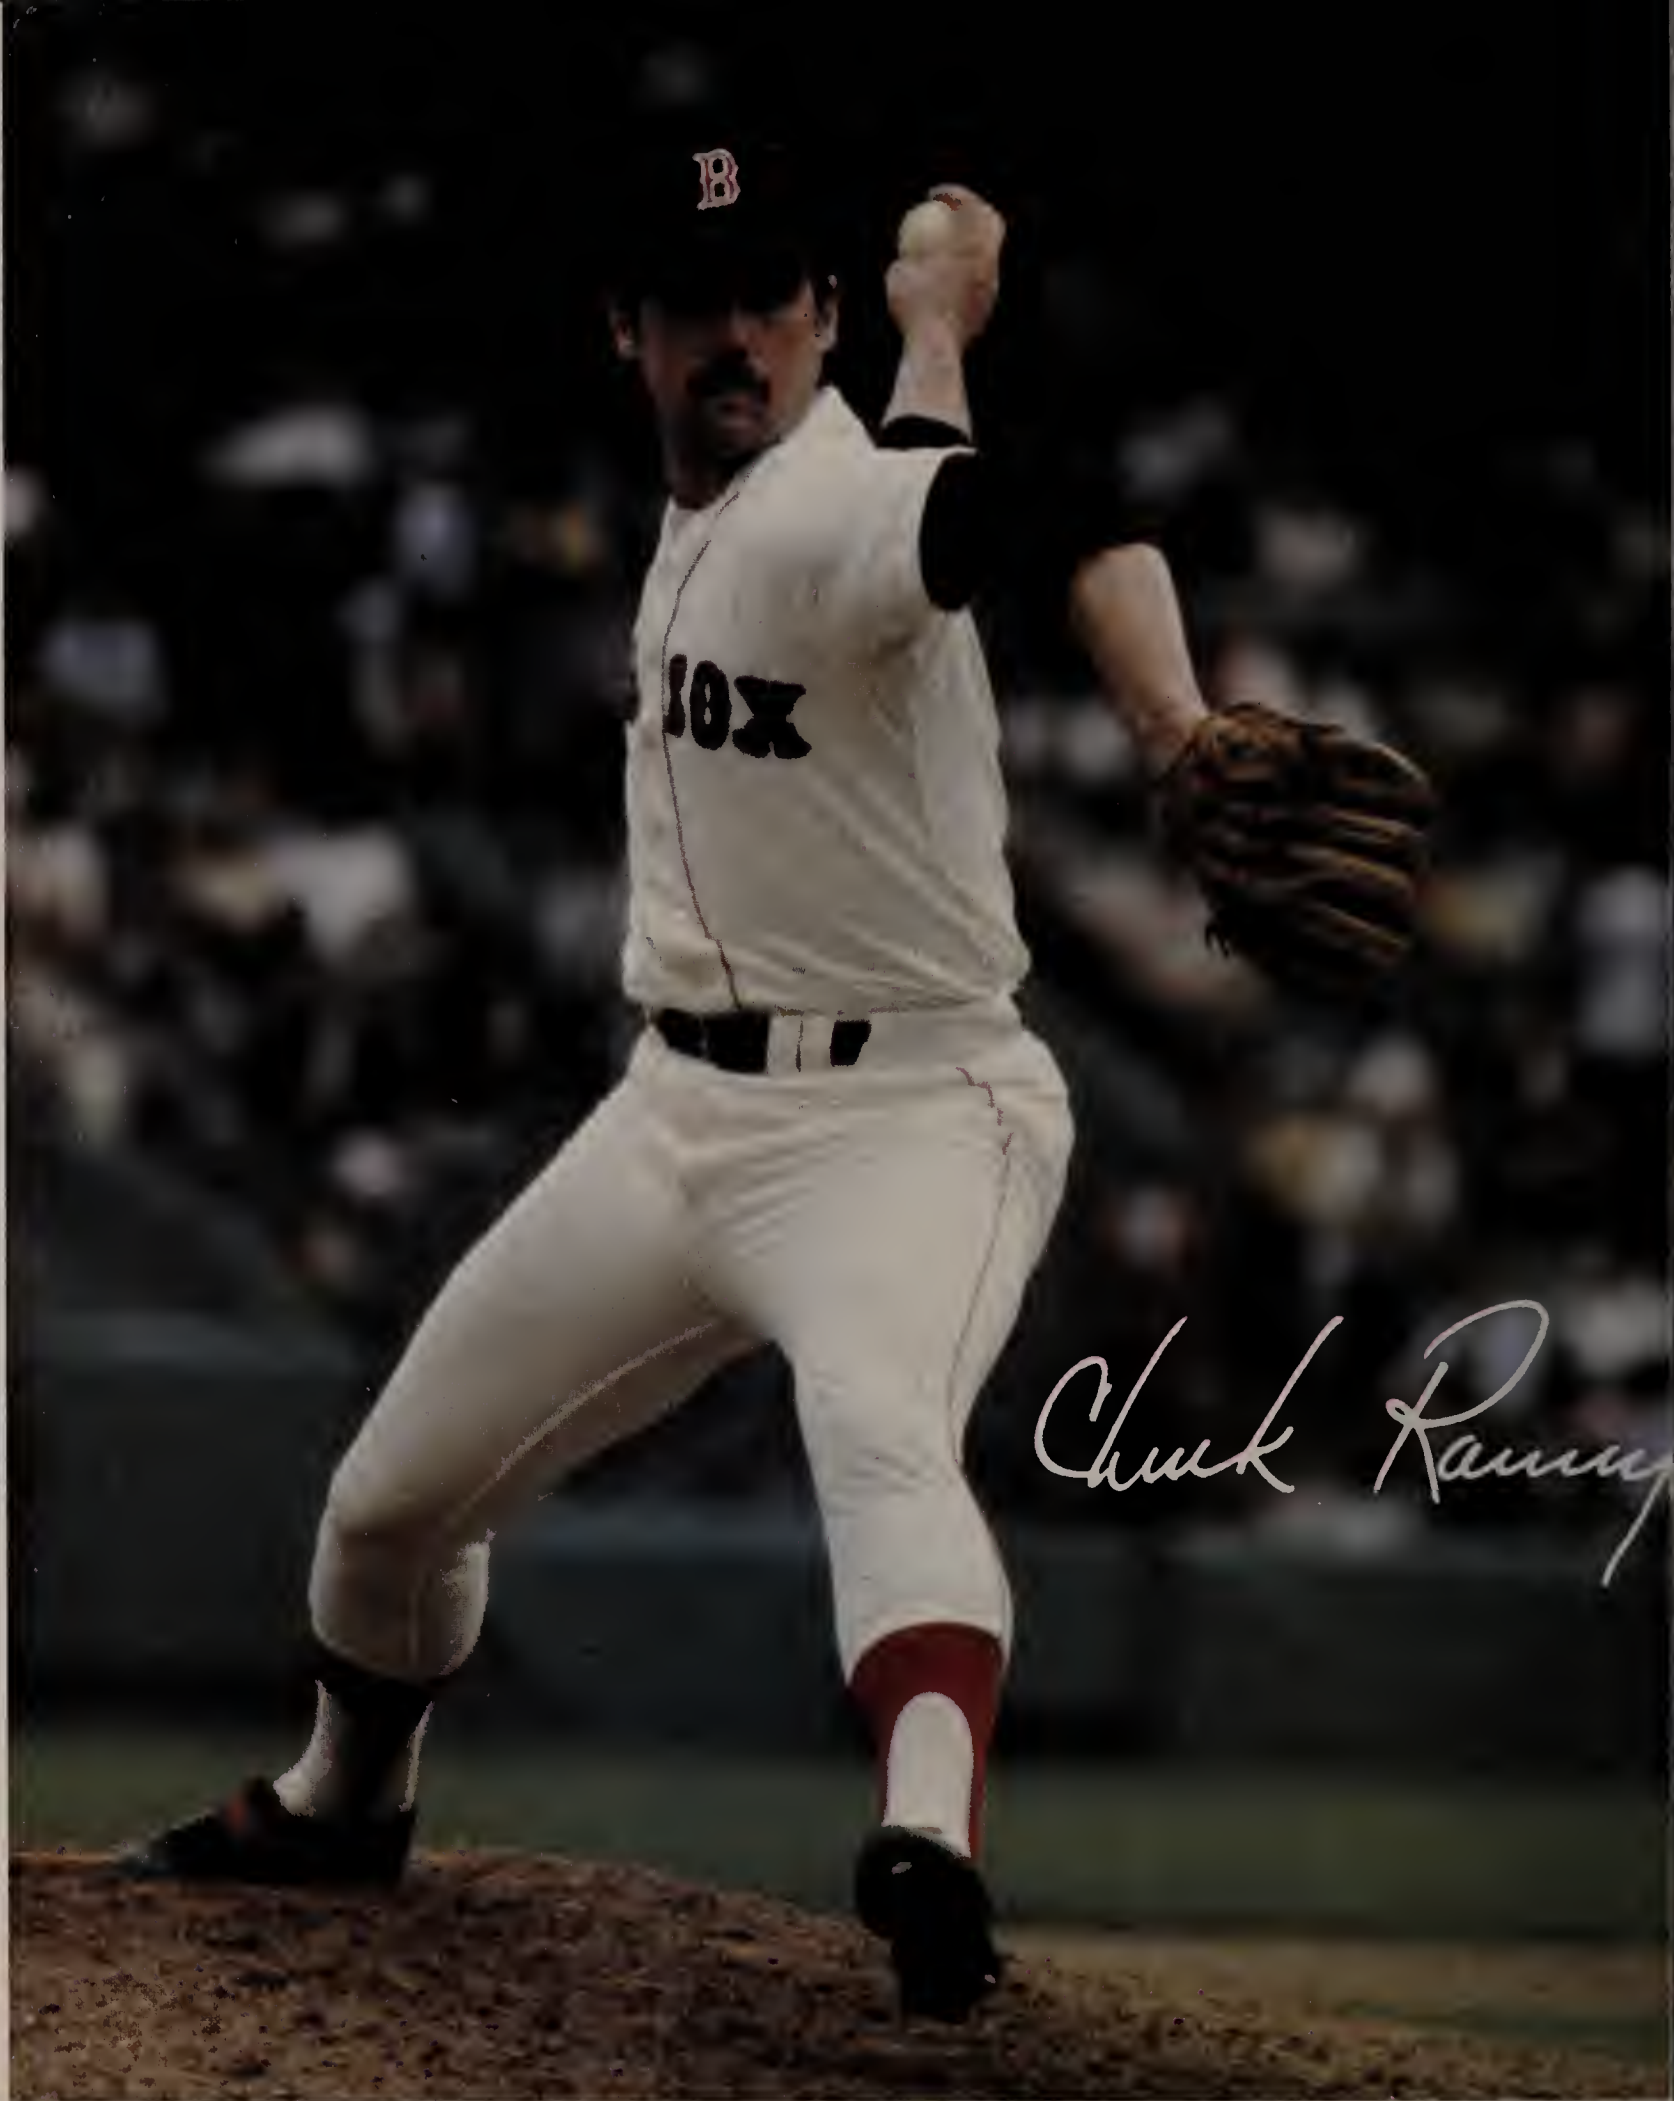

25 Renko

Steve Renko

Rainey

42

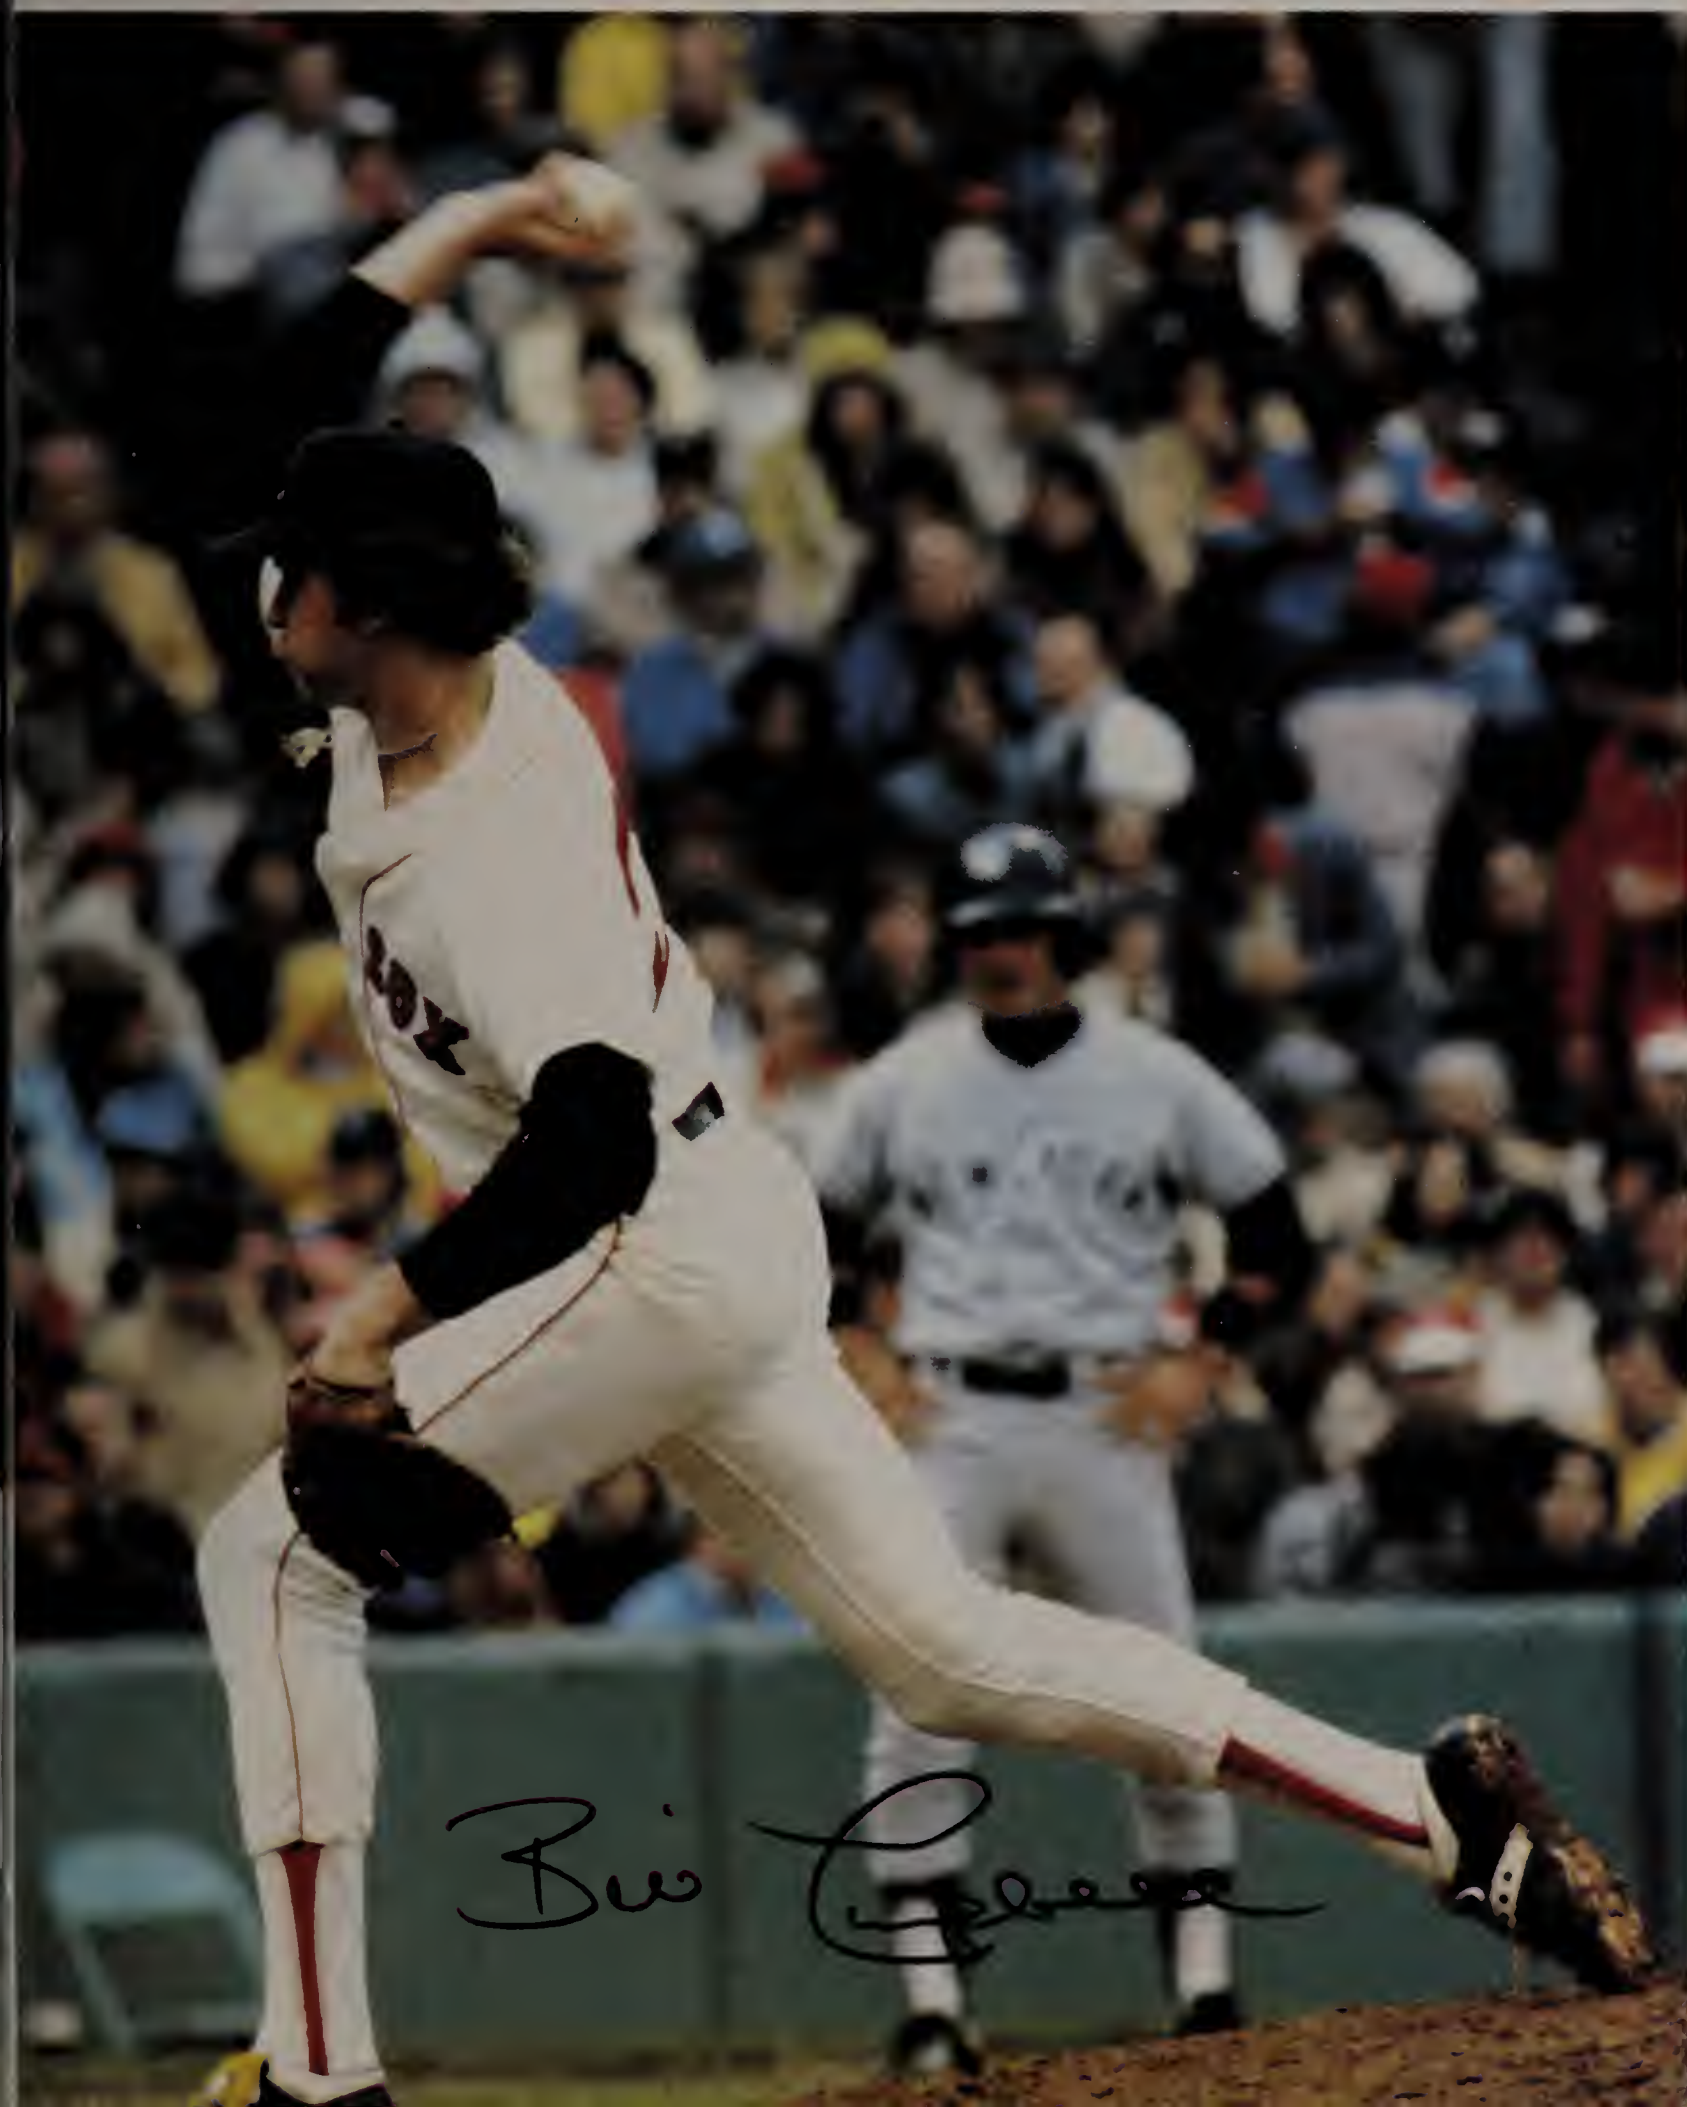

Chuck Rainey

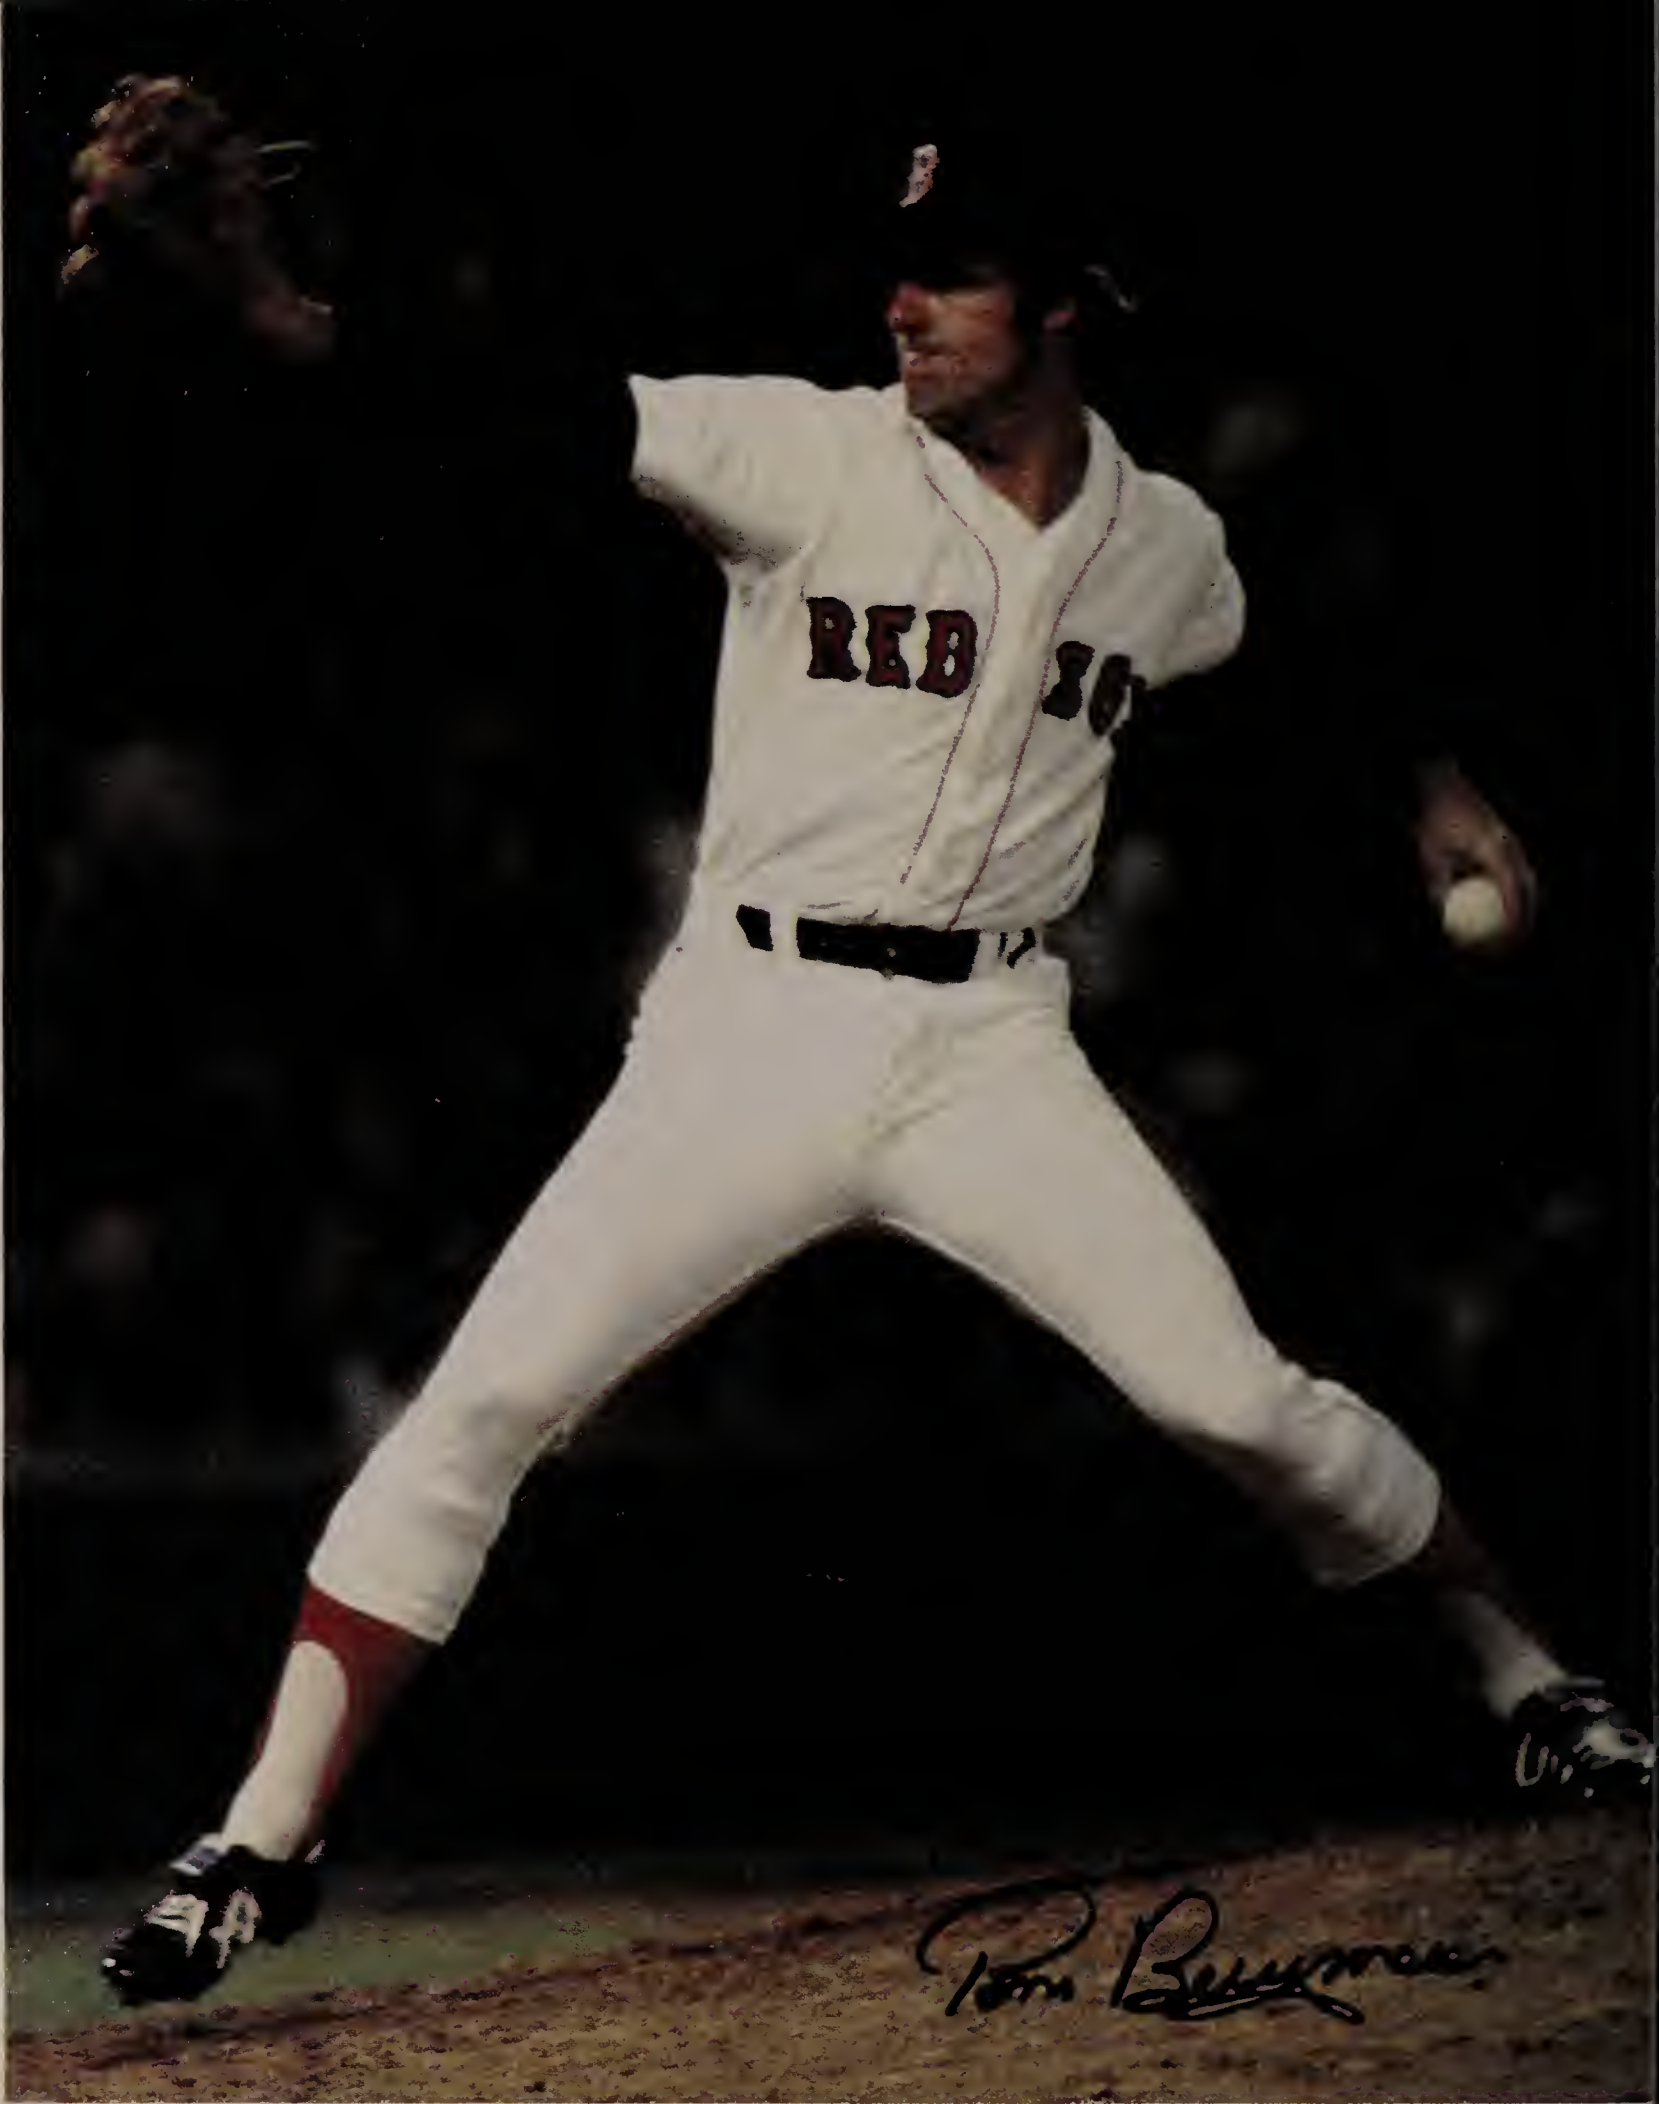

Chuck had an impressive Spring Training and then stepped in and beat Milwaukee in his first major league start. He used a sharply-breaking slider along with a sinker and curve ball to become a part of the starting rotation. Last year he was the "stopper" of the Pawtucket staff and chalked up a 13-7 record with a 2.91 ERA. In the International League playoffs he won the deciding game of the first round against Toledo, with a four-hit, 12-strikeout performance, and duplicated that effort in Game 5 of the finals against Richmond. In 1974 the Red Sox made Rainey their first pick in the January draft.

Dedication and perseverance helped Bill come back after having arm problems last year. It was a slow process during Spring Training and the early part of 1979, but "Soup" came up with some big efforts reminiscent of two years ago. In 1977, his first year with the Red Sox, he was the A.L.'s top reliever with 13 wins and a league-high 31 saves in 69 games. A veteran of Viet Nam, Bill started his pro career in the Minnesota organization in 1971. He joined the Twins during the 1973 season and quickly developed into one of baseball's best "Firemen."

22 Sam Rice

Burgmeier

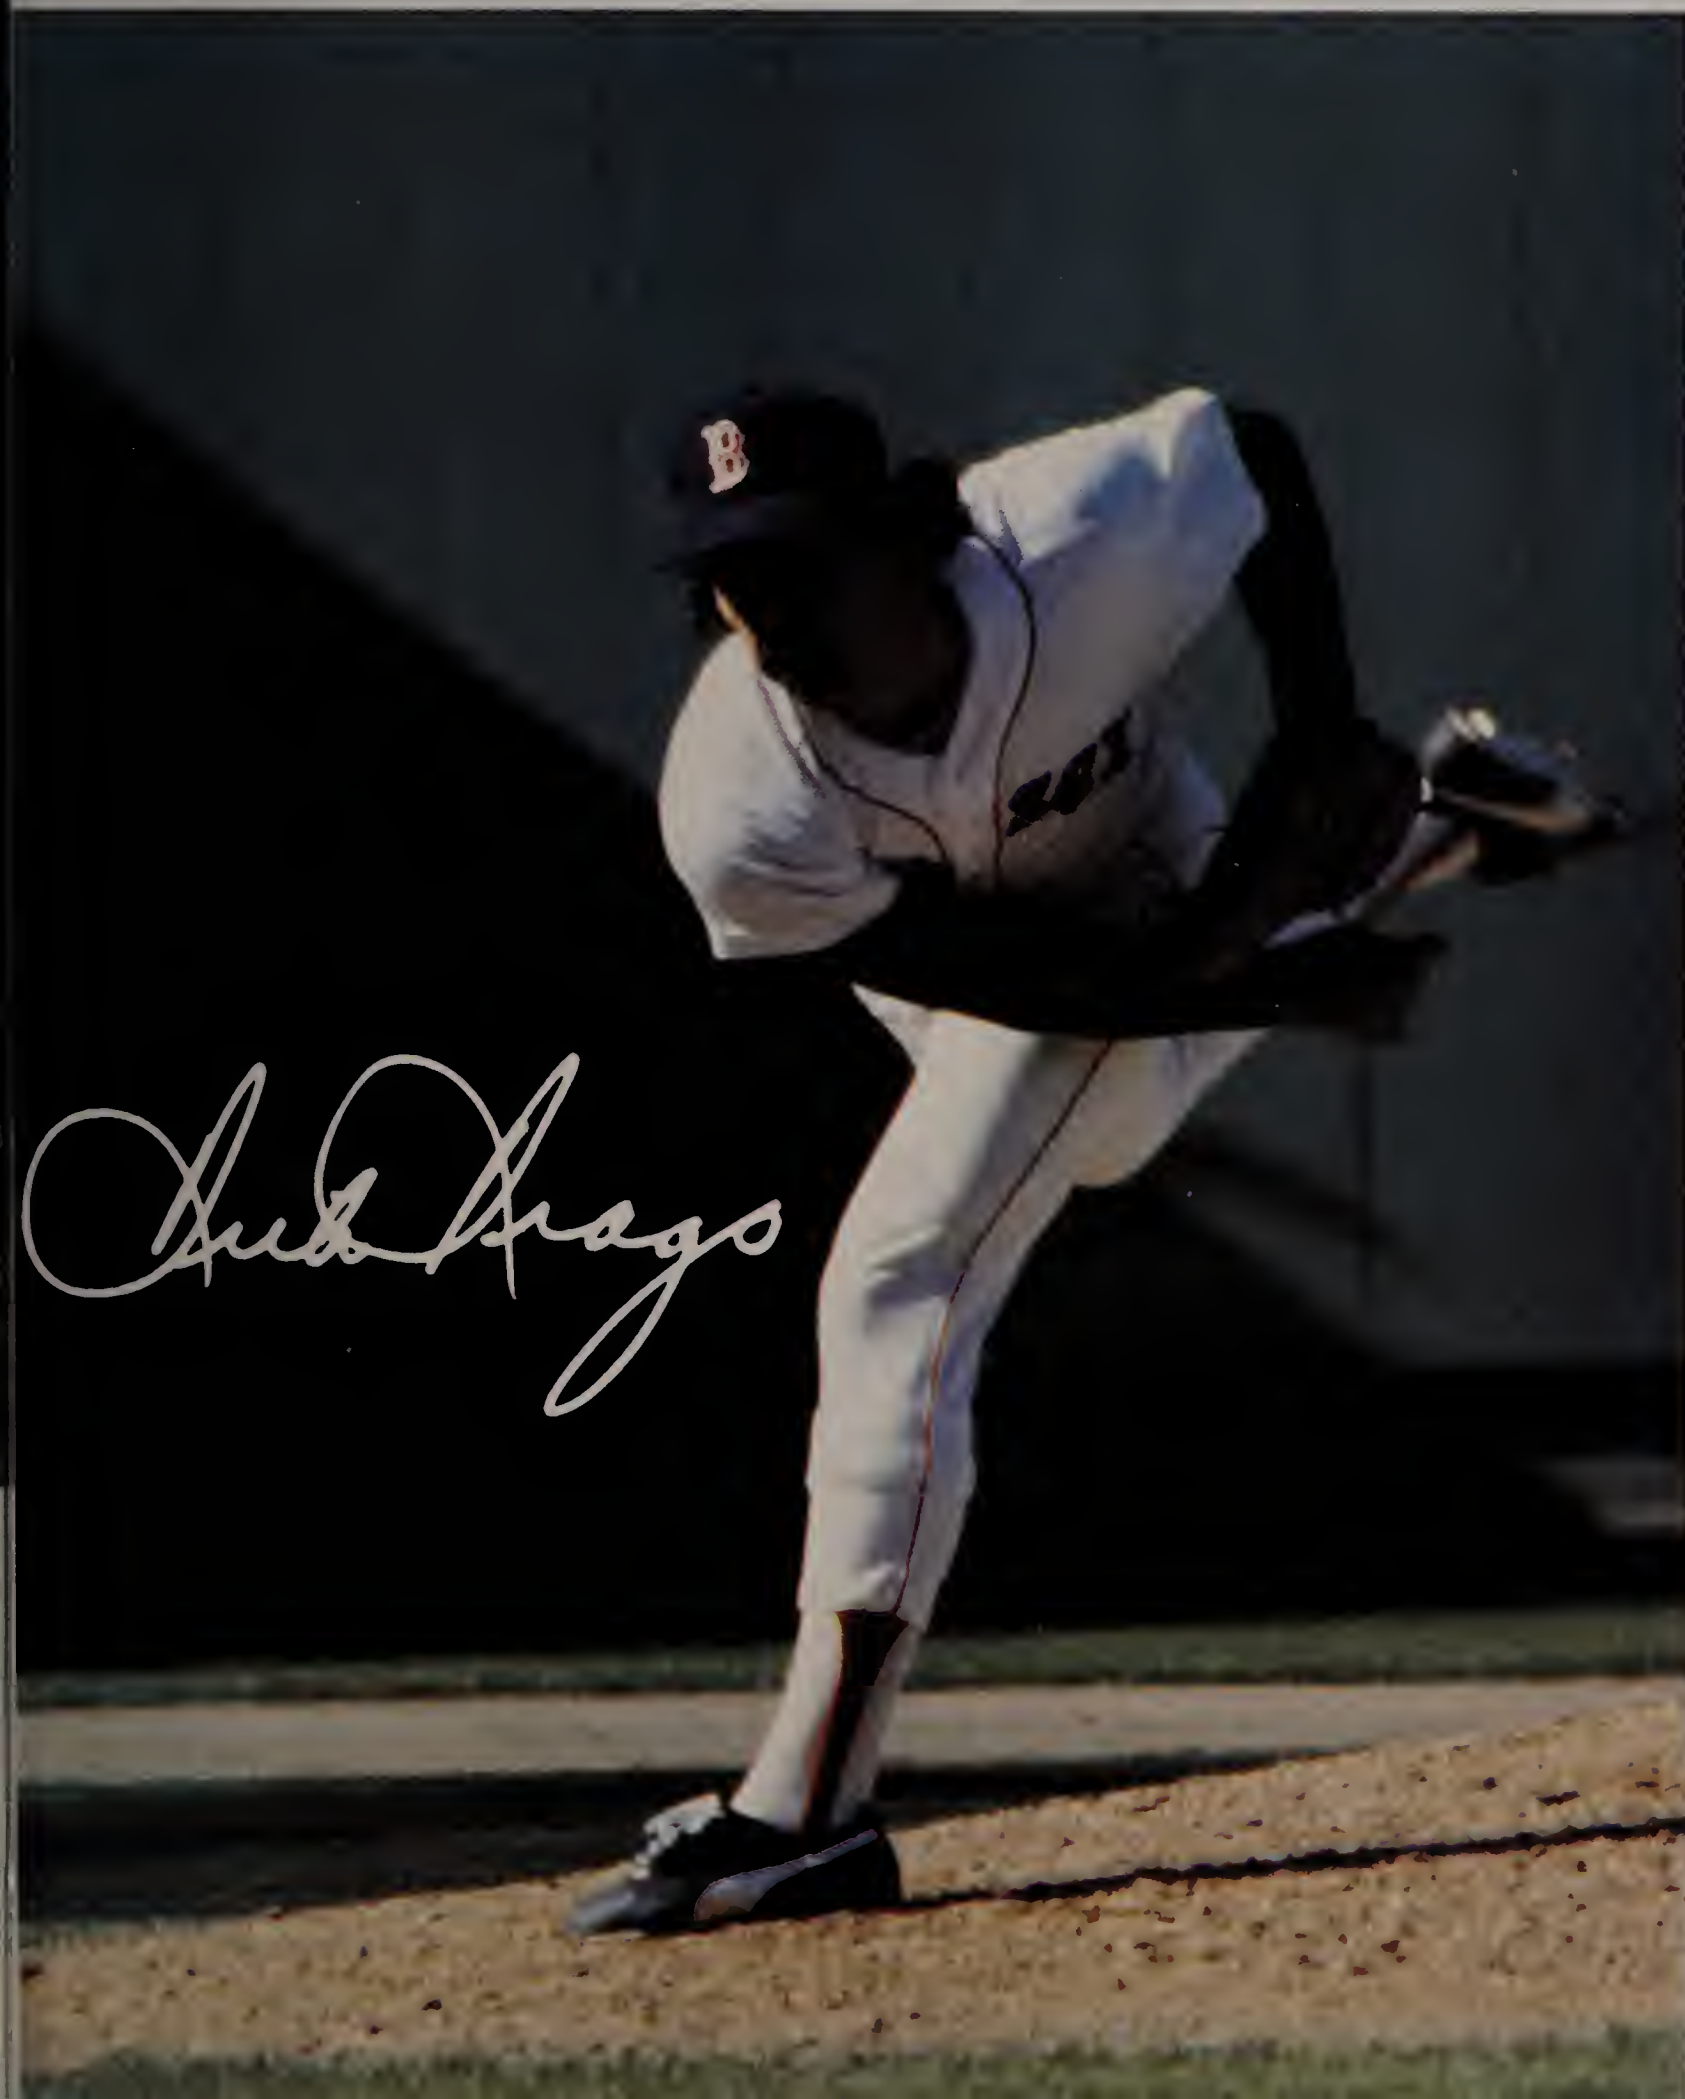

16

Burgy has pitched in over 500 games during a 12-year career with the Angels, Royals, Twins and Red Sox. He came to the Red Sox, through the Free Agent Re-entry Draft, prior to Spring Training in 1978. Throughout his career, Tom has been dependable both as a long and short reliever. He originally signed with Houston in 1962 but was released after 2½ minor league seasons. He then signed with the Angels and made it to the majors in 1968. That fall he was selected by the Royals in the fourth round of the expansion draft. In 1967 he won a Silver Glove as the best fielding pitcher in the minors.

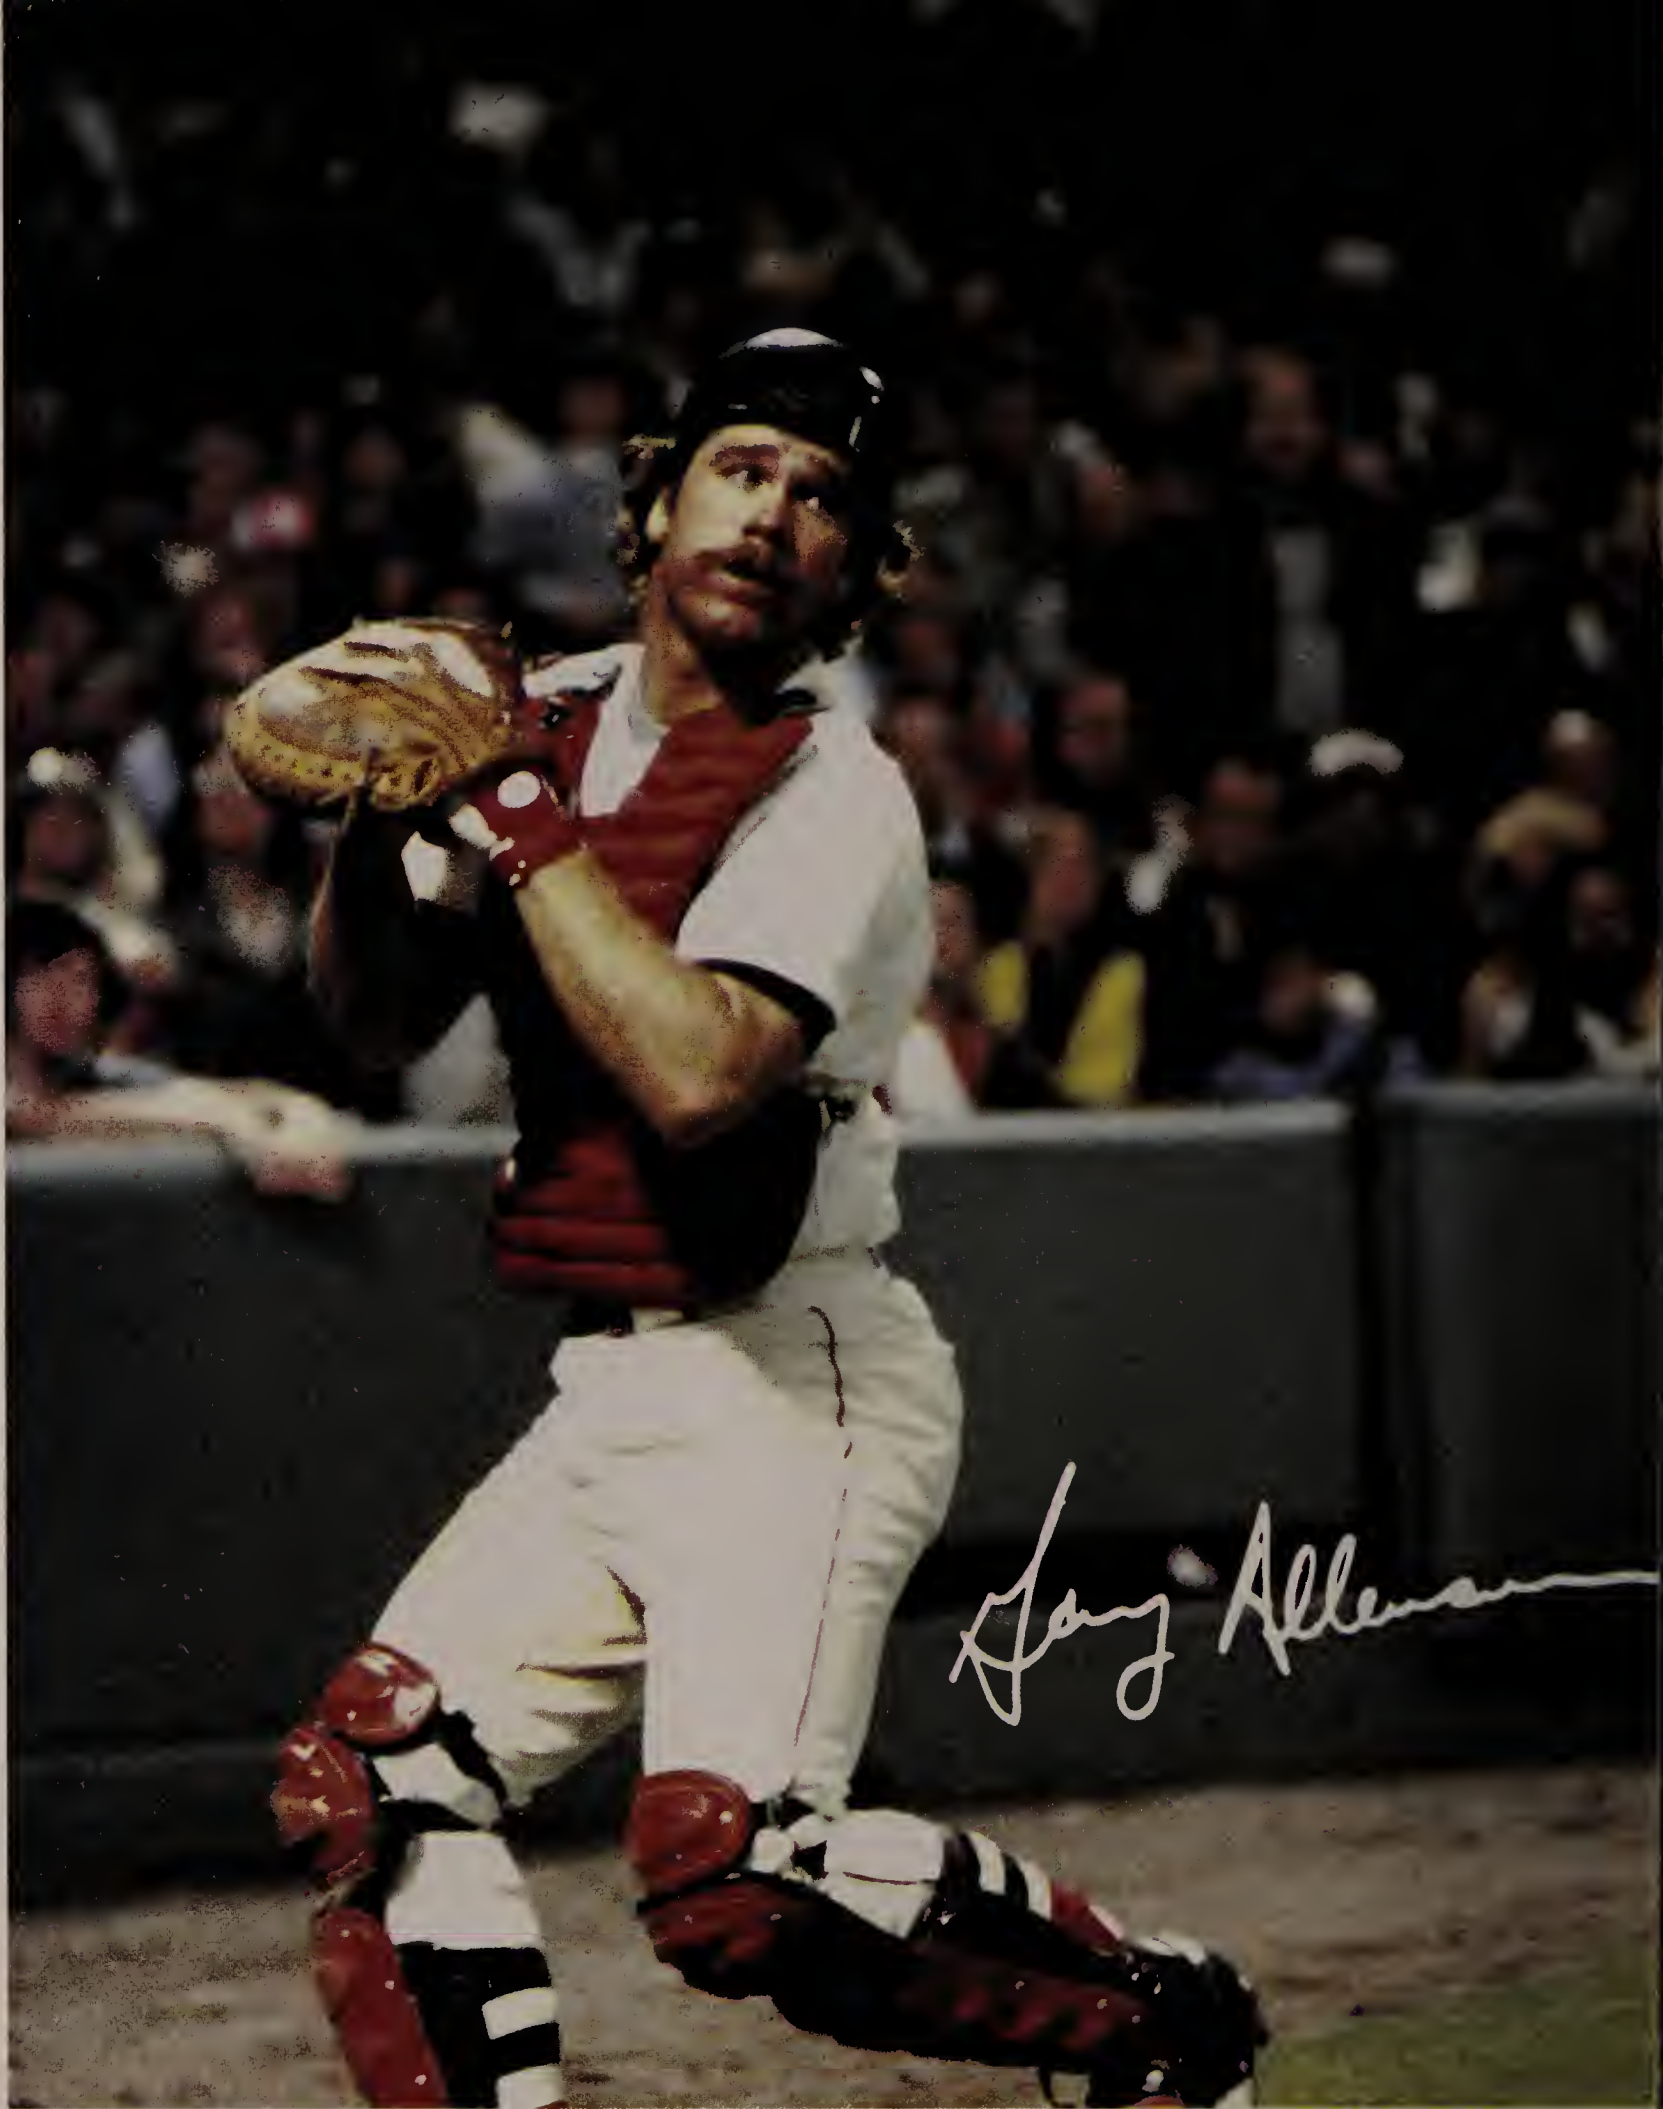

The Red Sox got off to a strong start in 1979 with a big boost from Dick's relief efforts. A live fast ball, good control and consistency enabled Drago to "save" many games and rank among the league's best bullpen artists. Through the first half of 1979 he was pitching in the style that helped propel the Red Sox into the 1975 World Series. He originally signed with the Tigers in 1965 but was taken by the Royals in the 1968 expansion draft. He first came to Boston in 1974, and had 15 saves in the 1975 pennant drive before going to the Angels in 1976 and the Orioles in 1977.

Allen

39

Gary's continual improvement behind home plate made him a valuable member of the team early in the season when Carlton Fisk was sidelined. He hit his first major league home run April 16 off Cleveland's Rick Wise and came up with his share of clutch hits. In 1978 Gary hit .299 in 133 games, with 20 home runs for Pawtucket, and was named the International League MVP and the Triple A All Star catcher. After only 2½ years of minor league baseball he won a berth on the major league roster in Spring Training. The Red Sox drafted Gary ninth in the 1976 June draft after he had enjoyed a fine career at Arizona State.

Jack has continued to play an important role for the Red Sox. Early in the season, he turned in a solid performance while filling in at third base for the injured Butch Hobson. In addition to his ability as second and third baseman, Jack's excellent bat control makes him a good clutch hitter. He's been a tough man to strike out during his eight-year major league career. In 1967 he was the Indians' 32nd choice in the June draft, but by 1972 he was their regular second baseman. He played four years with the Indians and two with the White Sox before joining the Red Sox for the 1978 season.

Tom Poquette

Poquette

17

Tom switched locker rooms in Kansas City on June 13 and several hours later helped the Red Sox defeat his former team with two hits. Since earning recognition as one of the game's brightest rookies in 1976 (.302), Tom has been an important part of three straight Kansas City Western Division title teams. Tom overcame two knee operations to make the Royals for good in 1976 and compiled a .277 career average in over 300 games. He was picked by the Royals in the 1970 June draft after graduating from Eau Clair, Wisc. Memorial H.S.

Joel Finch

Finch

44

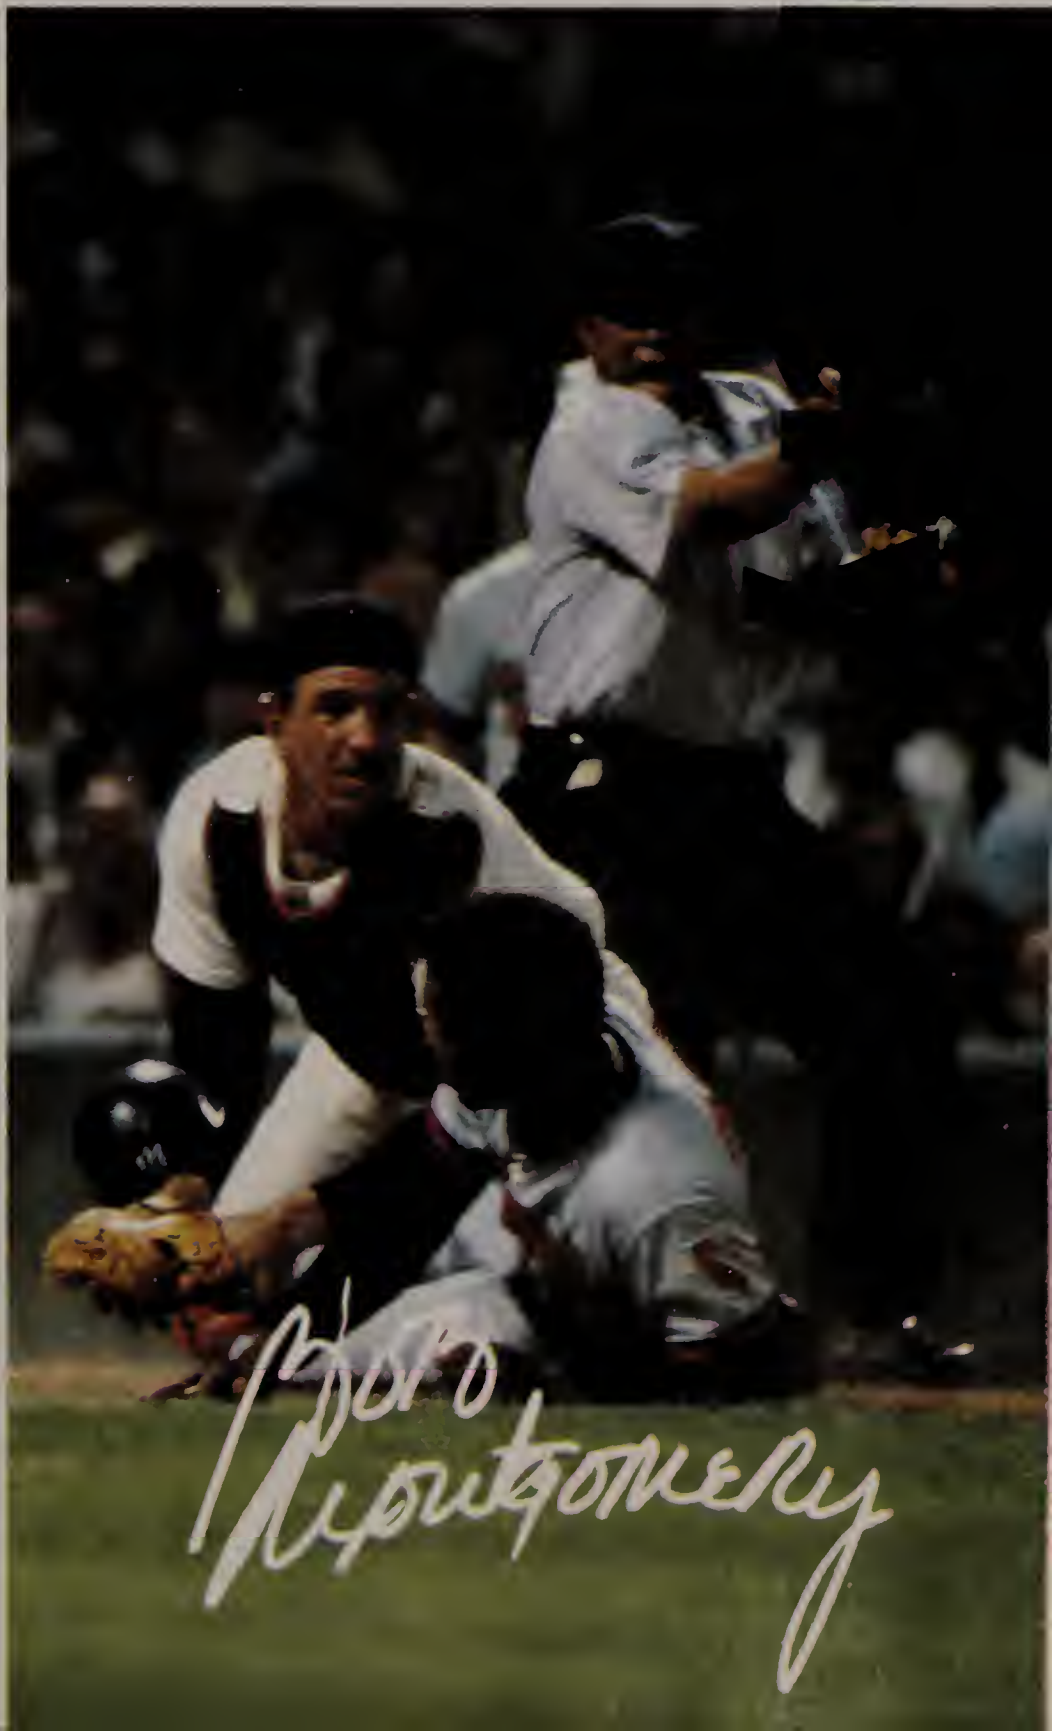

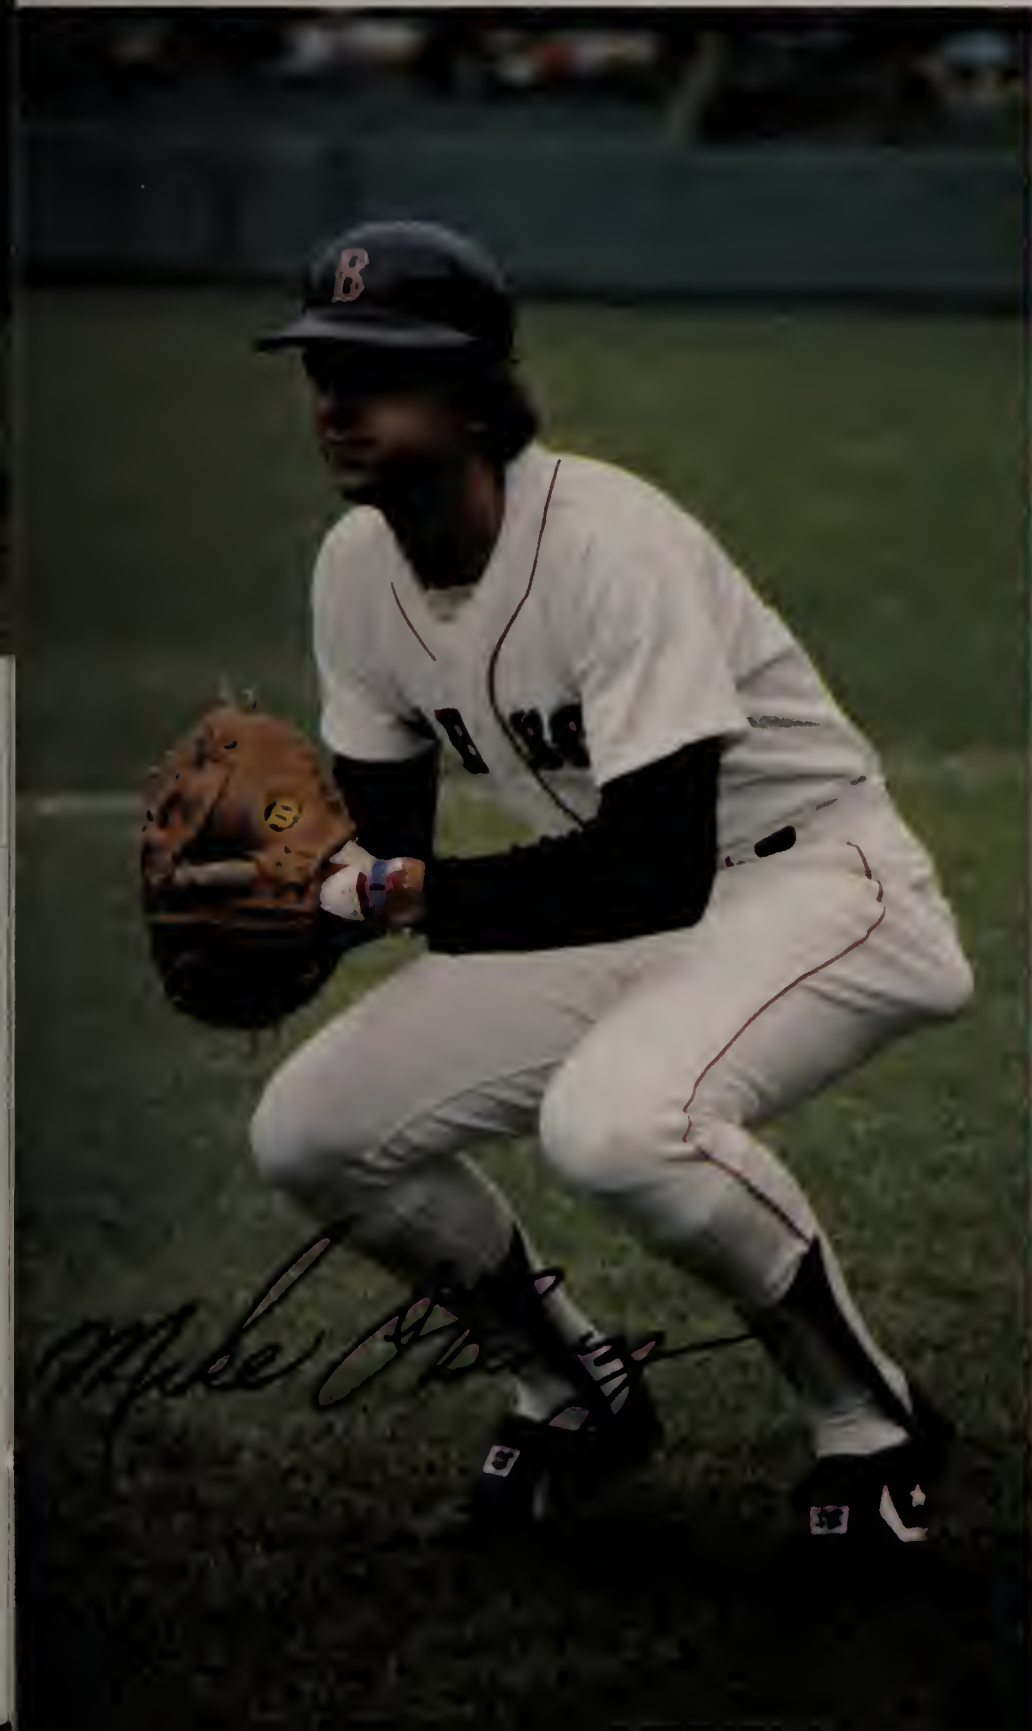

Joel moved up to the Red Sox in June after he turned in a 7-1 record for Pawtucket. He was 11-8 at Pawtucket last year, his first in Triple A, and led the staff with 25 starts. He beat Toledo 4-3 in the opening game of the International League playoffs and was the top pitcher for Bayamon in the Puerto Rican Winter League. Finch was the Red Sox ninth draft pick in June of 1974 and did not have a losing record in over five years of minor league pitching. In the last two years and two months at Bristol and Pawtucket he was 33-16.

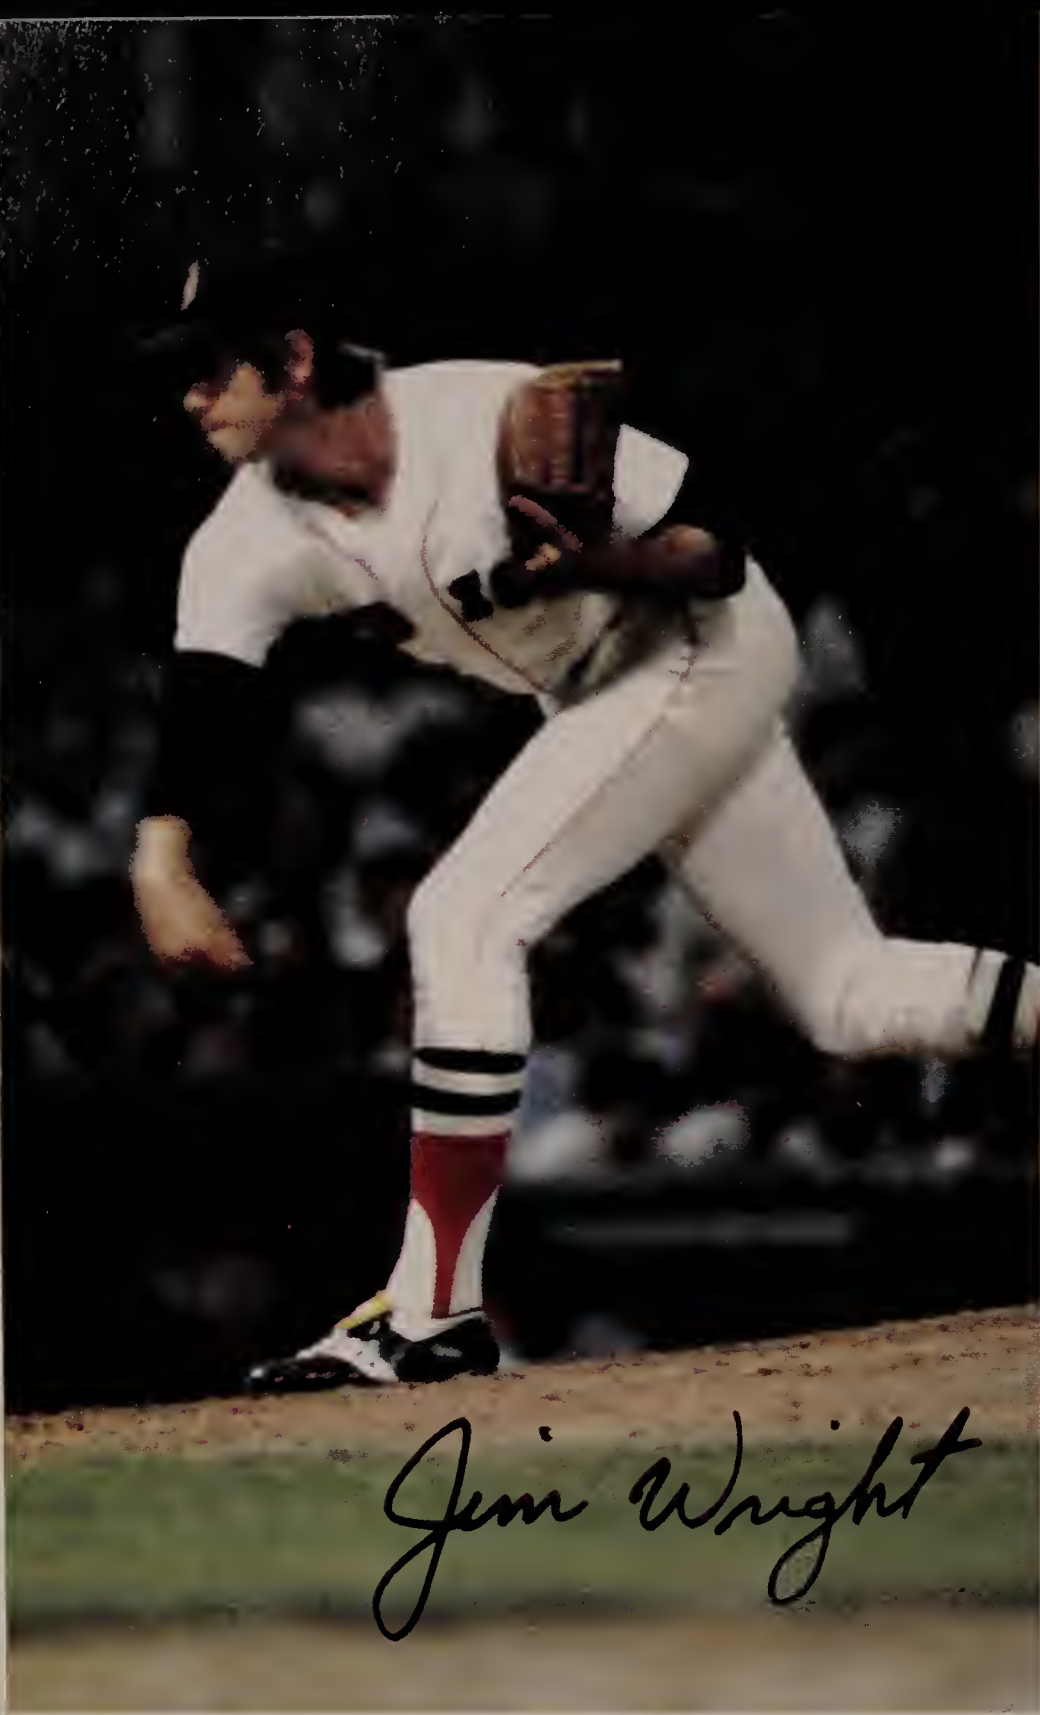

50 O'Berry

Mike jumped from Double A to the majors this year after a good defensive showing in Spring Training. In 1978 he had personal pro highs in average, hits, home runs and RBIs in 114 games at Bristol. He also led the Eastern League catchers in games, putouts, and assists. O'Berry played for former major leaguer Eddie Stanky at the Univ. of So. Alabama, and he was the Red Sox 22nd pick in the 1975 June draft after his junior year. He started several games earlier this year and got his first major league hit off the Indians' Sid Monge.

10 Montgomery

Monty did an excellent job behind the plate early in the season before he went on the disabled list with an injured elbow. Now in his tenth year with the Red Sox, Bob has always been ready to come off the bench and provide the team with a solid defensive effort. He was an outstanding high school athlete in Nashville, Tenn., but did not become a catcher until he signed with the Red Sox in 1962. He climbed through the farm system and reached the majors to stay in 1970. Bob hit .292 and .324 his last two years in Triple A, and despite limited action, hit .320 for the Red Sox in 1973 and .300 in 1977.

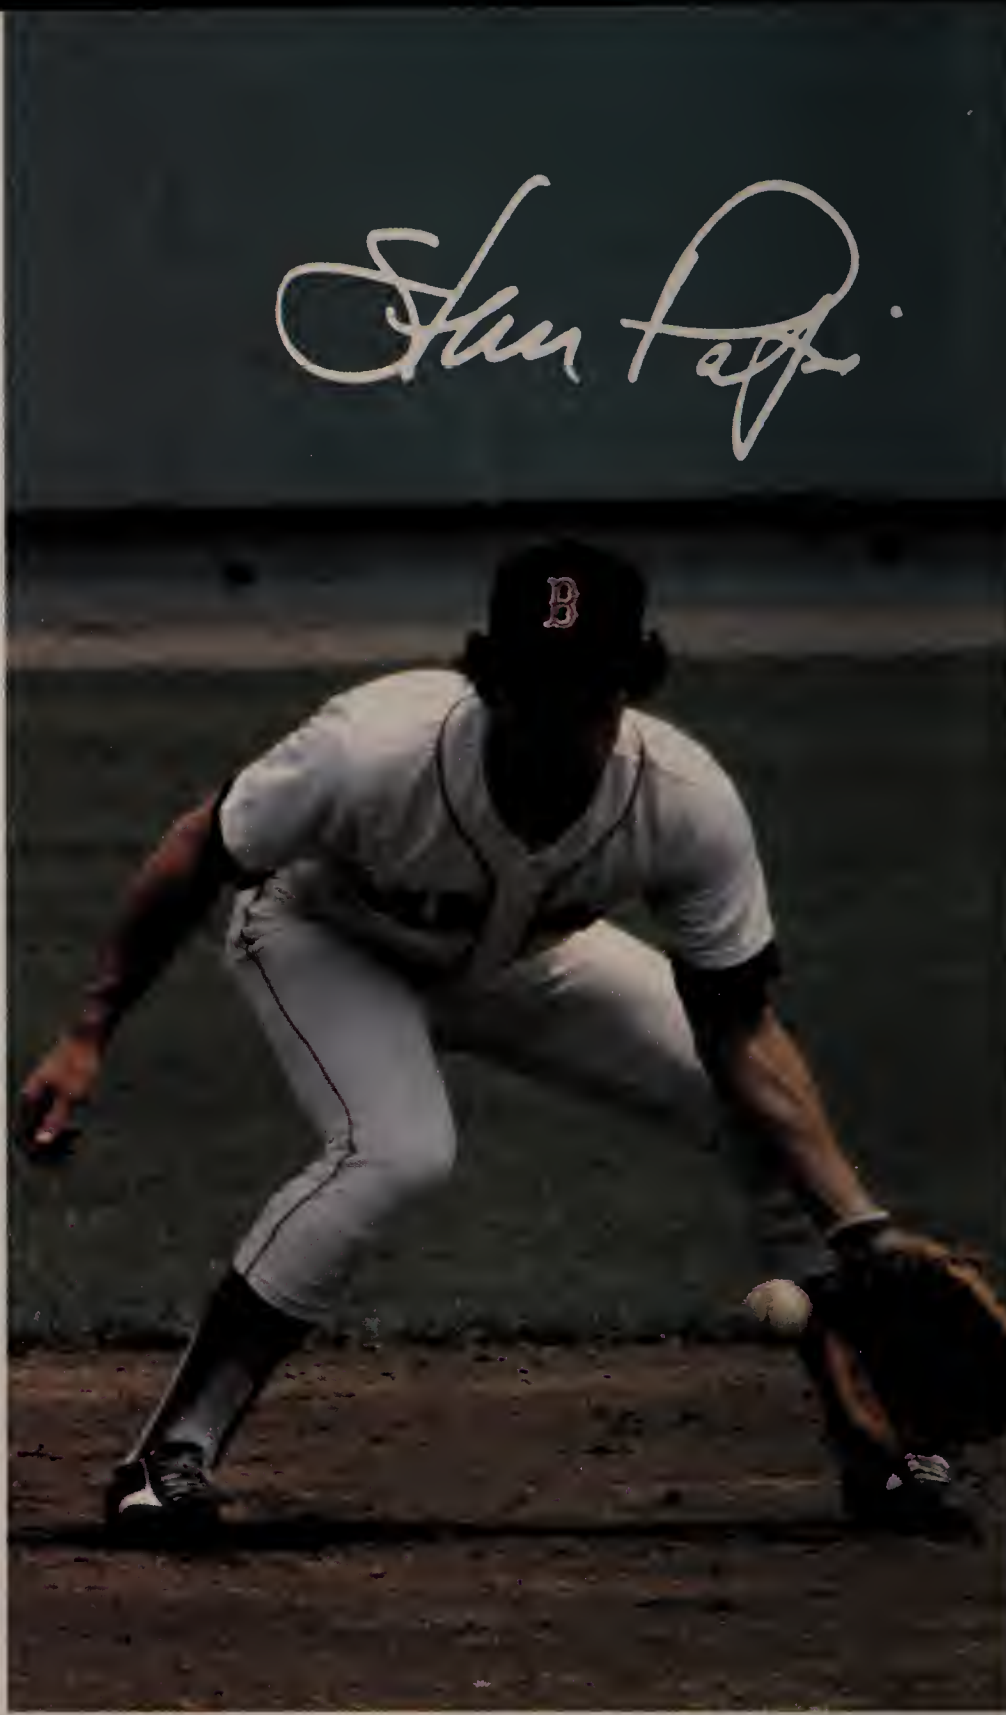

Jim Wright

wright

Persistent shoulder problems have hampered Jim's 1979 season after he put together an 8-4 record with three shutouts as a rookie. After nine years in the minor league system he made the Red Sox roster and shut out the White Sox 3-0 in his first major league start in 1978. The curve-balling right-hander was the club's fourth pick in the 1969 June draft, and in 1977 he was the ace of the Pawtucket staff with a 12-8 mark and a 2.94 ERA. Last year he joined Dave Ferriss (1945) and Billy Rohr (1967) as the only Red Sox pitchers to have shutouts in their first start.

45

papi

Stan overcame a Spring Training knee operation to become a valuable member of the Red Sox bench. After coming from Montreal for pitcher Bill Lee, he aggravated a knee condition after getting a hit in his first Spring Training at bat. He returned to action May 27 with a double that gave the Red Sox a 1-0 win in Toronto. In 1978 Papi played second, shortstop, and third for Montreal. His career has been hampered by a severe case of hypoglycemia that caused him to miss all of 1975. By 1977 he was at full strength again and was named Triple A shortstop at Denver where he hit .296 with 13 homers.

12

20 Wolfe

The Red Sox acquired Larry from the Twins prior to Spring Training, and he has done a fine job filling in at second and third bases. A strong arm and the ability to make contact at bat have made Wolfe a key member of the team. He was the Twins ninth pick in the 1973 June draft and hit over .300 for three minor league teams. In 1977 he hit .304 at Charleston, tied for the International League lead with 33 doubles and led all third basemen in put-outs and assists. He went to the Twins that September and was with them throughout 1978.

1 Dwyer

In mid-March the Red Sox acquired Jim from the Giants, and he quickly showed his value by hitting over .300 during Spring Training while being a defensive standout in the outfield and at first base. His first Red Sox hit in the regular season came in the 9th inning in Milwaukee, with two outs and the bases loaded, and won the game. Jim is a graduate of Southern Illinois U. and is in his fifth major league season. Before coming to the American League, he played for the Cardinals, Expos, Mets and Giants. He twice won Triple A batting titles, with .387 at Tulsa in 1973 and .332 at Wichita in 1977.

Don't drive your car to drink.

A tankful every now and then can't hurt. But if your car is constantly hitting the gas pump, it may be time to take stock of the situation and ask yourself why. Your car may not be totally to blame.

For instance, do you know that, contrary to popular opinion, warming up your car for long periods in winter doesn't benefit your car?

But it sure wastes gasoline.

So do other things you may never think of. Like driving on tires that are under-inflated. Or over-inflated.

Or like letting your air filter get clogged.

Then there are the more obvious ways to drive a car to drink. Jackrabbit starts which never seem to get you anywhere any faster, except to the next red light. Then you slam on the brakes and waste more gasoline.

Hundreds of thousands of gallons of gasoline are also wasted every year by untuned cars. And, of course, by not obeying the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit.

If people were a little more careful about the way they treated their cars, we'd have less of a drinking problem here in America.

In fact, if everybody saved just one gallon of gasoline per week per car, we could reduce foreign oil imports by 13%. That's why Getty Oil would like nothing better than to see every car drink a little less. That way we'll all get more miles for our money.

We want you to get more miles for your money.

Before Gillette Atra®, it was impossible to shave this close with so much comfort. Why?

Atra is the first razor with a head that pivots to follow every contour of your face. Stroke after stroke, it's right on the money.

This Atra "face-hugging" action keeps the twin-blades working at the perfect shaving angle. No other razor could ever do that.

Try the Gillette Atra Razor soon. You'll be convinced there's never been a better way to shave.

Ned Martin and Ken Harrelson form a new Red Sox TV team in 1979. Martin has been a radio & TV announcer for the Red Sox since 1960 and is one of baseball's most popular broadcasters. Harrelson helped the Red Sox win the "impossible dream" pennant in 1967 and has been part of the Channel 38 telecast crew since 1973.

The Red Sox WITS radio network will hear play-by-play this year from the voices of Ken Coleman and Rico Petrocelli. Coleman did Red Sox games on radio & TV from 1966-74 and was a TV announcer for the Cincinnati Reds the past four years. Petrocelli makes his radio play-by-play debut. He had a great twelve-year career as a shortstop and third baseman with the Red Sox and his 210 home runs rank 5th on the club's all-time list.

POQUETTE, Thomas Arthur (Tom) #17

OUTFIELDER

Age: 27, Born: Oct. 30, 1951, Eau Claire, Wis. Ht.: 5'11"; Wt. 175 lbs. Brown eyes, Brown hair. Bats: Left; Throws: Right. Home: Eau Claire, Wis. Selected by Royals in June 1970 Free Agent Draft, 4th Round. Married Jane Sorensen. Children: Thomas Arthur II 4/4/79.

Length of M.L. Service — 3 yrs., 30 days.

On June 13 Tom was traded to the Red Sox and that night he got two hits against his former teammates. The versatile left-handed hitter can play all three outfield positions and is a good pinchhitter.

He overcame two knee operations in 1974-75 and joined the Royals for good in 1976. Tom had a sparkling rookie year with a .302 mark in 104 games, the first Royals' rookie to reach .300, and was a consensus All-Major League Rookie selection. In 1977 Poquette batted mostly in the leadoff spot and hit .292, while getting a career-high 13 game hitting streak. Last year he was platooned in left field. He was .286 (6-21) as a pinchhitter, and hit the Royals' only pinch homer.

After being drafted on the fourth round in June of 1970, Tom worked his way up to the Royals for the first time in Sept. 1973. His first big league hit was a single off Oakland's Vida Blue Sept. 10, 1973. In 1974 he was hitting .305 at Omaha in the American Assoc. when he tore cartilage in his right knee.

Poquette, who is of French-Norwegian-Indian descent, was a three-sport star in baseball, basketball and football at Eau Claire's Memorial High School. As a sophomore he helped the baseball team win a Wisconsin prep championship, and as a senior he was named to the Topps' H.S. All-District Four team.

WATSON, Robert Jose (Bob, Bull) #5 1B-DH

Age: 33. Born: April 10, 1946, Los Angeles, Calif. Ht.: 6'2"; Wt.: 208 lbs. Brown eyes, Black hair. Bats and Throws: Right. Home: Houston, Tex. Originally signed with Houston, Jan. 1965. Married Carol Lefer. Children: Keith 6/22/70, Kelley 12/13/72.

Length of M.L. Service — 10 yrs., 84 days.

The Red Sox acquired the 10-year veteran from Houston June 13. Watson compiled a .297 career average in 1381 games for the Astros that included four .300 years. He hit .289 in 1977-78, and his regular season low was .272 in 1970. Bob holds the Astros' records for career hits and RBI, and for his 11 sacrifice flies in 1978 and 110 RBI in 1977.

Last year Watson was on the way to one of his finest years when a 17-game hitting streak (2 shy of his career high in 1973) put his average up to .298. However, a pulled hamstring in mid-August sidelined him for 14 games and limited him to pinchhitting duties for several more games.

The Astros signed Watson as a free agent in January, 1965, and he made appearances with Houston in parts of 1966-67-68 before moving up for good in 1969. He hit .421 for Salisbury in 1965, .302 at Cocoa in 1966, and a .408 average in 61 games with Oklahoma City in 1969 prompted his recall.

Before signing with Houston, Bob graduated from Freemont High in Los Angeles where he played baseball and football. He then went to Harbour J.C. where he was All American in baseball. He played for the N.L. in the 1973 and 1975 All Star games and was named the Astros' MVP in 1975 by a vote of the Houston BBWAA.

During his major league career Bob has been a first baseman, catcher and outfielder, but has not done any catching since 1973.

NOW COMPUTER ACCURACY IN A COLOR TV.

NEW MAGNAVOX TOUCH-TUNETM TELEVISION.

COMPUTER TOUCH-TUNING FOR EASE AND EXACTNESS. A highly sophisticated microprocessor lets you touch-tune directly to any UHF/VHF channel. Easily. Exactly. An optional touch-tune remote control even allows you to scan channels up or down.

COMPUTER DESIGNED CHASSIS FOR RELIABILITY AND PERFORMANCE. Thanks to computer technology, the Magnavox 100% solid-state chassis offers a new level of viewing pleasure and performance. It's special circuitry automatically maintains color consistency from station to station, and scene to scene.
